Not Card Bored

Q. Westminster High School has adopted a 9-year-old Colombian boy, and we are sending him some baseball equipment for Christmas. Can ACTION LINE help us find a large, available Christmas card with room for 300 students to sign? V.H., Seal Beach.

A. Santa's on his way to Colombia. Arlene Roberg in the sales department of Buzza-Cardozo greeting cards, 1500 S. Anaheim Road, Anaheim, found a 7-by-13-inch card for you, with a jolly Santa slipping down the chimney, and plenty of space for signatures. The card is being sent to you compliments of Buzza-Cardozo.

Re: Refund

Q. On June 12, 1967, I signed a lease with the Charles River Park Apartments in Boston, Mass., and gave them a $169 deposit. Four months later I was obliged to move, but arranged for someone else to take over the lease. I was told by the management that my deposit would be returned to me. I have been trying for more than a year now to get that deposit. They keep promising to send a check, but never do. What should I do? V.J.B., Long Beach.

A. ACTION LINE tried numerous times to reach Steven Herzog, managing director of the apartments, but he was always "unavailable at the moment." Herzog's secretary said she had "heard" that a check is to be sent to you, but could not say when, and refused to offer any further explanation. A spokesman for the Better Business Bureau in Boston said no complaints on the apartments have been received by that office. However, he offered to check into the matter for you if you will write to the bureau at 100 Cambridge St., Boston, Mass. 02111.

No Ranch for Dudes

Q. My name must be on every sucker list in the United States because I get appeals from all kinds of charitable organizations. One of them is Cal Farley's Boys Ranch of Amarillo, Tex. Do you know if this is a legitimate organization? Does the money really go to help needy boys? B.S., Long Beach.

A. The Better Business Bureau in Amarillo has had no adverse reports on the ranch since its inception in 1939. A representative of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce told ACTION LINE that the people of Amarillo are proud of the ranch and the work it does in rehabilitating boys. She promised to send a letter the chamber puts out on the ranch together with several brochures. S. G. Harriman, secretary of the board of directors for the ranch and son-in-law of the late Cal Farley, said the ranch is a nonprofit, tax-exempt organization. He added that 12 1/2 per cent of the donations received goes for administrative costs, the rest is spent directly for the benefit of 348 boys, 41 of whom are from California. About 40 per cent of the boys are referred by the courts, the rest are pre-delinquents, homeless or abandoned youngsters. The ranch employs 28 teachers to give the boys academic and vocational training. The boys are also given nonsectarian religious education. Harriman pointed out that people in Amarillo have helped the ranch by donating money and such services as medical and dental care.

Drape Red Tape

Q. I have been looking in all the stores in Long Beach for drapery material. Once, you were able to go to department stores and pick up the material. Now, you have to go to a special department, order it and wait days for your order. Where can I find a place with a large stock that will sell me 30 yards of material? R.C., Long Beach.

A. ACTION LINE called several yardage shops and found four that have a big stock of drapery material in the quantity and type you need. They are Bullock's, 5005 Clark Ave., Lakewood; Barshop's House & Home Fabrics, 18600 S. Pioneer Ave., Artesia; Leo Bloom Co., 1615 S. Main St., Los Angeles, and Saroff Silk Shops, 4529 S. Broadway, Los Angeles.

Sex at School

Q. I'm a senior at California State College at Long Beach taking a course in health education. As a class project, we are investigating sex education curriculums in area school districts. We have received good cooperation from most but have been stilled in a sea of red tape in our attempts to observe what is being taught in the Long Beach Unified School District. Can you help us get permission to visit a Long Beach class? R.L., Long Beach.

A. Yes. Call Mrs. Ina Lundh at the Long Beach Unified School District offices at 436-9931, and she will set up a class visit for you. Mrs. Lundh, assistant director of curriculum, is in charge of the sex education program, and will explain it to you. A spokesman for the district says the district is glad to set up such appointments, although "it seems discourteous for a professor to assign a whole class to such a project, and unthoughtful for the class members to come in one by one." He says the district would prefer that appointments for class visits be made by a single class delegate, or by an organized study group.

Cousin Henry?

Q. Can you find out if there was a stage actor named Henry Gunson who was a first cousin of President George Washington? I'm working on a project about early U.S. actors, but have been unable to find anything about this man. C.W., Long Beach.

A. Frank E. Morse, librarian for the 8,000-volume Washington Library at Mount Vernon, Pa., checked your question for ACTION LINE and failed to find any mention of a Henry Gunson in the Washington histories, or "one of the best genealogies on the Washington family." He noted that two John Washingtons, unrelated, came to Virginia in the 1650s. The one who settled in Westmoreland County was President Washington's great-grandfather. "Sometimes we've found that these two Washington families are easily confused in the best histories," Morse said. An ACTION LINE check of theatrical histories at the Long Beach Public Library did not find Henry Gunson on stage or in the wings.

ACTION LINE SPECIAL Suspect Fair Game for Marijuana Tax

By STEVE STOWE
Staff Writer

Marijuana smokers take as much pride in knowing the ins and outs of narcotics laws today as bootleggers did in outwitting prohibition.

But while they may be familiar with police tactics and criminal law, "grass blowers" often are caught by a little-known tax law which may inflict painful injury to their pocketbooks regardless of a criminal conviction.

Letters from several teen-agers and young adults prompted ACTION LINE to look into the 1937 Marijuana Tax Law which levies a $100-per-ounce fine on anyone who transfers or receives marijuana without first notifying the Internal Revenue Service.

We learned you may have to pay the heavy federal tax on marijuana confiscated where you were present even though authorities decide there is not sufficient evidence to charge you with a criminal offense — or if you are charged and subsequently found innocent.

An Internal Revenue Service spokesman said the tax may be levied simply on the basis of a police arrest report "on suspicion of" or even on a newspaper account of a marijuana booking.

It is not necessarily relevant to the tax case that, in most marijuana raids, everybody on the premises is swept up and jailed, then most are kicked loose the next day and criminal complaints filed against only a few.

One 18-year-old girl told ACTION LINE she was stunned to receive a tax bill for more than $1,000 a few weeks after accusations against her of being in a place where marijuana was used were dismissed for lack of evidence.

Another teen-aged girl was assessed $1,600 after

Stricken Sailor Gets Aid

Rescuers Reach
L.B. Ship at Sea,
Ailing Man 'OK'

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

A Navy rescue team used a three-man medical unit in a ship-borne helicopter Friday to remove a stricken crewman from a Long Beach-based minesweeper nearly 600 miles out in the Pacific.

Spokesmen for the Cruiser-Destroyer Force, Pacific, said the San Diego destroyer-frigate Joutette —manned by a hastily assembled crew of sailors from other undermanned ships during the Thanksgiving holiday—had moved to within 100 miles of the minesweeper Acme late Friday afternoon, then put the chopper aloft on her mercy mission.

The helicopter mission —headed by Lt. Cmdr. L. E. Smith, a Balboa Naval Hospital doctor—went aboard the Acme and found the ailing sailor, the ship's corpsman, was "in good condition."

HE WAS removed to the Joutette, however, and the medical team said he would be airlifted to the Balboa medical facility as soon as the frigate moves within helicopter distance of the hospital.

"The corpsman diagnosed his own ailment as a perforated ulcer," the Navy spokesman said. He said the two doctors indicated the perforation had apparently closed itself.

The Acme is one of five Long Beach-based minesweepers en route to their home port following deployment on the Vietnam combat zone.

Hope Dies for 78 Men, Mine Ordered Sealed

Their Gravel Loads Are The Vanguard of Many That Will Be Used to Seal W. Va. Coal Mine

Killer Gas Rules Out Survival

MANNINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — The long-dreaded decision to seal a burning coal mine where 78 men have been trapped for more than nine days came Friday night, only after "every possible avenue to reach the men" had been used.

President William J. Corcoran of the Consolidation Coal Co. made the announcement and typed copies of his statement were handed to newsmen.

It came nine days, 12 hours and 51 minutes after the initial explosion ripped through No. 9 and touched off deep fires on Nov. 20.

CORCORAN met with relatives of the 78 men earlier in the James Fork United Methodist Church and told them of the decision.

"The minister couldn't finish the prayer because of the crying in the church," one observer said.

Corcoran said work on sealing the sprawling mine "will begin at once" but he gave no timetable on how long it would take to seal the entrances and air vents or how long the big coal-producer would remain closed.

The mine employed over 300 men and 99 of them were on the midnight shift when the first blast rumbled through its honeycomb of passageways. Twenty-one men on duty when the first blast occurred escaped.

"The cumulative evidence shows without question," Corcoran said, "that human life is not possible where the men would be located."

HE referred to air samples sucked from the shafts through copper tubings shoved down the borings made by high-speed drills. All of the samples showed lethal concentra-

Five Killed in Traffic Accidents

A 13-year-old Bellflower boy was killed Friday when he was struck by a car as he ran across Lakewood Boulevard near his home and a Stanton man was found dead in the wreckage of his auto in Anaheim.

Lakewood sheriff's deputy Win Schomann said Don Eugene Ibbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ibbs, of 9141 Alondra Blvd., was dead on arrival at Studebaker Hospital, Norwalk, following the 5:15 p.m. accident at Lakewood and Burton Street.

Driver of the car, Jose Luis Soto, 32, of Pico Rivera, was not cited.

The body of Larry John Murphy, 25, of 7385 Thunderbird Lane, was found in his auto at about 2:30 a.m. at Ball Road and Gilbert Street in Anaheim. Officers said the victim apparently lost control of the car and smashed into a utility pole.

In an earlier accident, a Santa Ana man and two young brothers were killed when their jeep overturned while on a desert

Newark Curfew in Effect in Fire, Police 'Slowdown'

Newark, N.J. (UPI) — A six-hour curfew went into effect at midnight Friday in this city of 400,000 because of a day-long sick call campaign which kept half the city's police and firemen off their jobs.

The men began returning to work late in the day after the city obtained a court order directing them back to their jobs. But Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio apparently decided to go ahead with the curfew until he was sure both departments were fully manned.

THE WORK slowdown to back demands for pay increases kept 1,000 of the city's 1,300 patrolmen off their jobs. The firemen's action was less effective, with only 300 of the 1,000 department members calling sick. No major incidents requiring fire or police action were reported during the day.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes refused Addonizio's request for state police aid for the city, which has one of the nation's highest crime rates. He said he could only take the action in the case of an insurrection.

Police Director Dominick Spina said he would have to leave the curfew in effect because the men put on the streets during the slowdown, many of them from the sheriff's and prosecutor's office, were unfamiliar with their assignments.

"If I call off the curfew and something happens, I will only have myself to blame," Spina said.

Any wife with an inferiority complex can cure it by being sick in bed for a day while her husband manages the household and children.

2 Bodies Still Entombed in Sunken Oil Tender

Two seamen remain entombed in the murky depths of the Santa Barbara Channel today after divers recovered seven bodies of men who went down with the sunken oil tender Triple Crown.

The nine lost their lives when the tender capsized in wind-tossed waters eight miles off Santa Barbara and went to the bottom just before dawn Monday.

Three of the victims were from the Long Beach area.

Jack William McDaniel, of Lakewood; William M. Thomasson, of Torrance; and Mark Von Mills, 46, Newport Beach.

Sixteen others on the 170-foot ship were rescued from choppy channel waters by the Long Beach-based tug Pacific Saturn.

The Triple Crown was hauling a 2,000-foot anchor chain from the Blue Water II offshore oil drilling platform when it flipped over and went down.

RESPONSE TO SOVIET TACTICS

Europe Duty Eyed for Green Berets

By ENDRE MARTON

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States probably will send to Germany early next year several units of the Green Berets, the special forces trained in counterinsurgency and guerrilla warfare, authoritative sources reported Friday.

There is no firm decision as yet. But military and diplomatic authorities in Washington agree that such a step, described by one source as "the strongest political signal," should be made part of the U.S. response to the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Dispatching the Green Berets would be in addition to returning two brigades of Army troops and four squadrons of jet fighters to Germany. The brigades and air squadrons, withdrawn from Europe in 1967 and 1968, are expected to be flown to Germany some time in January or February, instead of in the second half of the coming year as originally planned.

The brigades and planes were withdrawn in accordance with an agreement with Germany and Britain in 1967 permitting the rotation of the three brigades of the 24th Infantry Division and four of the nine squadrons of tactical fighter planes. Officially the move was called redeployment and the forces remained committed to NATO.

Currently most Green Berets are in Vietnam, and with a few attached to American forces in West Berlin.

NEW QUEEN OF THE SEAS IN TRIAL RUN
Britain's newest ocean liner, Queen Elizabeth 2, goes through her paces in speed trials in the Firth of Clyde off the coast of Arran. She was forced to cut short the trials because of machinery trouble. The 65,000-ton luxury vessel asked tugboats to stand by as a precautionary measure but they were not needed, the ship returning to anchorage under her own power.

INTERNATIONAL Bombers Pound Reds; 78 of Enemy Slain

SAIGON, Saturday — American B-52 bombers flew three raids early today. They struck twice 22 miles southwest of Quang Ngai city about 300 miles northeast of Saigon and once 27 miles southeast of the capital.
Friday Communist troops attacked a U.S. armored column with rifle, machine-gun and rocket fire near the Cambodian frontier in a five-hour battle that left 78 Red soldiers and seven Americans dead. It was the third battle in as many days in the border region northwest of Saigon.
Meanwhile, the Viet Cong's command issued orders for a new offensive to "utterly destroy" U.S. and South Vietnamese combat units and pacification teams. Radio Hanoi said the objective of the offensive was U.S. and South Vietnamese search and destroy units that were "destroying our villages and occupying our areas."

FREE 140 VIET CONG

SAIGON, Saturday — The South Vietnamese government today freed 140 Viet Cong prisoners in the largest such release of the war. The former Communist soldiers, who vowed their support of the government, were turned loose in simultaneous ceremonies in downtown Saigon, Pleiku and Da Nang. They included 130 men, ranging in age from 13 to 65, and 10 women. The largest group — 85 men and 5 women — were released in a ceremony in Saigon. It ended with the prisoners shouting anti-Communist slogans before being reunited with their families. "Down with the Communist aggressors!" the prisoners shouted in unison.

Yugos Celebrate Communist Anniversary
JAICE, Yugoslavia — President Tito Friday observed the 25th anniversary of Yugoslavia as a Communist nation with renewed criticism of powers, east or west, which seek to violate the sovereignty of other nations. He told an assembly of Yugoslav leaders "new crises and focuses of trouble" will result from such actions. The 76-year-old partisan hero, hailed the postwar growth of a Yugoslavia which sees "the role and position of the working man as a free and independent creator in a self-managing society."

German Court Convicts 7 Former Nazis
DARMSTADT, Germany — A West German court convicted and imprisoned seven ex-SS men for the bloodiest Nazi firing squad murder of Jews, the 1941 killing of 33,771 men, women and children in Babi-Yar ravine in the Soviet Union. Ending a 13-month trial, the judges sentenced the seven to hard labor terms ranging up to 15 years.

Peace Talks 'Highly Unlikely' Next Week
PARIS — The Viet Cong Friday rejected as "insolent" a U.S. demand to stop the fighting in Vietnam and said it would ignore the presence of South Vietnam at the Paris conference table. U.S. sources said it was "highly unlikely" the expanded talks could get under way next week, as had been hoped. North Vietnam also accused the U.S. of bombing its territory for the third straight day in violation of the bombing halt and said it would protest to Washington. (Peace negotiators grapple with a strange problem in diplomatic geometry, Page A-10).

France in New Anti-Inflation Moves
PARIS — The French government decreed Friday new price controls, including outright freezes, aimed at relieving the devaluatory pressure on the franc. The strongest move yet against feared inflation, the new controls supplement existing rules thus putting most of the country's economic activities under one kind of control or another. France's battle to save the franc already has been damaged by inflation, 1.05 per cent from September to October alone.

Romania Agrees to Russ Maneuvers
LONDON — Diplomatic reports Friday said Romania has agreed to permit Soviet troops on its soil for maneuvers with the stipulation that they will leave the country once the war games are completed. These reports said the agreement was reached under Soviet intimidation in the past few days during a meeting of Warsaw Pact defense leaders in Bucharest headed by Soviet Marshal Ivan Yakubovskiy, the pact's supreme commander.

NATIONAL Dr. Cooley Performs 96th Heart Implant

HOUSTON — Dr. Denton Cooley and his surgical team transplanted a heart Friday into the body of Milton Wackstein, 54, an industrial engineer from Flushing, N.Y., who had been waiting for such an operation at St. Luke's Hospital for one month. Wackstein was the world's 96th heart recipient. He received the heart of a 40-year-old man who died of a brain hemorrhage. The hospital would not identify the donor, at the request of his family. Wackstein entered the hospital a month ago with severe "coronary insufficiency," a spokesman said. The operation took about an hour and a half.

N. Y. Stock Market Posts 1968 High
NEW YORK — The stock market posted a strong, steady gain in active trading Friday. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 8.76 points to 985.08, another new 1968 high. Of 1,590 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 883 advanced and 468 declined. Volume was 14.39 million shares. Steels, motors and other blue chips were particularly strong.

TOW Can Cripple Tanks a Mile Away
WASHINGTON — The Army Friday awarded the first production contract for a new soldier's missile said to be capable of knocking out enemy tanks more than a mile away. The $55,371,527 contract for the missile, called TOW, went to Hughes Aircraft Co. Eventually, the Army said, more than $140 million will be spent to buy the weapon. The TOW, for tube-launched, optically tracked, wire guided missile, is designed for use by units as small as companies.

The Army claimed it will knock out any known armored vehicles, and in tests has proved effective in destroying concrete fortifications and bunkers.

N.Y. Students Protest Short Holiday
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. guards temporarily closed the public gates and stood armed with clubs Friday to block several thousand protesting New York high school pupils from entering U.N. headquarters. The pupils had been milling about in the area for several hours, protesting the decision by school authorities to keep schools open the day after Thanksgiving. Holiday time off has been curtailed in order to make up ground lost in the recent teacher's strike. New York police forced the pupils to leave the area.

Border Fans Help Blow Away Smog
SAN YSIDRO — Air pollution is so serious at the U.S.-Mexican border that three powerful fans have been installed in an effort to cut down on carbon monoxide fumes. Government agencies installed the fans because of concern that fumes might be harmful to inspectors checking the thousands of vehicles which pass through the border gate daily. The fans, draw air from about 20 feet above ground and blow it through the area where inspectors check cars returning from Mexico. The experimental project is said to be the first of its kind in the nation.

Hawaii Firm Buys L.A. Airport Hotel
HONOLULU — A Hawaii-based firm, Amfac Inc., said Friday it has purchased the leasehold on the Airport-Marina Hotel near Los Angeles International Airport. The firm, based in Honolulu, said it acquired operating rights for the 800-room hotel for about $3.7 million in cash plus participation in future profits. Amfac will take over operating the hotel Jan. 31.

'UNLOCKED JAWS'
ALBANY, N.Y. — Lawrence Peters, 48, of Fort Hunter ate a Thanksgiving turkey for the first time in 20 years. A 10-hour operation performed at Memorial Hospital "unlocked" Peters' jaws which had been fused by an affliction known as ankylosis. Doctors said the ailment is not uncommon and is related to long-term rheumatoid arthritis. Both sides of his jaws were fused and other physical factors prevented an earlier operation. Before the operation, Peters was able to eat by having several teeth extracted, then forcing soft foods into the 'aperture' and grinding them by pressing them against his teeth with his tongue.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS Did Cleaver Flee to Canada?

Combined News Services
Law enforcement agencies, baffled by the disappearance of Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver, speculated Friday that the fugitive may come out of hiding for a court appearance two days before Christmas.

Police continued their effort to find the Peace and Freedom Party presidential candidate, sought as a parole violator since Wednesday. It was suggested Cleaver may have flown to Montreal, Canada, to take part in the "Hemispheric Conference to End the War in Vietnam" which opened Friday.

Cleaver is scheduled to appear in another proceeding in an Oakland court Dec. 23. If he fails, a $50,000 bond would be subject to forfeiture and Cleaver would be liable to penalty for bail jumping. The Dec. 23 appearance is for the setting of a trial of Cleaver and five others on assault charges resulting from a 90-minute shootout last April between Black Panthers and police. In the fight, Bobby Hutton, 17, was killed and two Panthers and two officers wounded.

Cleaver then was returned to prison as a parole violator. He had been on parole since 1966 after serving nine years of a 13-year sentence for assault and rape. Cleaver made $50,000 bail on the new charge resulting from the shootout and obtained a court order dissolving his status as a parole violator. A court ruled he was held in violation of parole because of his political beliefs rather than because of something he had done, but the ruling was reversed by an appellate tribunal.

NOVARRO CASE
A 17-year-old youth allegedly involved in the slaying of silent-screen star Ramon Novarro will be charged with murder and robbery and will stand trial as an adult, authorities said Friday in Van Nuys.

A juvenile court referee in Sylmar ordered that Thomas Scott Ferguson stand trial as an adult. Ferguson's brother, Paul Robert Ferguson, 22, already has been charged with murder and robbery. His preliminary hearing is scheduled Dec. 3 in municipal court here. Deputy Dist. Atty. James M. Ideman Friday said he would issue the complaints against the younger brother and recommend that he, like his older brother, be held without bond. Novarro, 69, was found bludgeoned in his nearby North Hollywood home last Oct. 31. The nude body of Novarro was found sprawled on a bed in the $150,000 home in which he lived alone.

Actress Kim Novak Friday in Hollywood was named "1969 Ambassador of Good Will" for the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund.
Paul B. Edwards, UNICEF information director, said Miss Novak will help raise funds by heading special drives and making personal appearance along with performer Danny Kaye, also a UNICEF participant.

AUTRY DIES
Funeral services were held Friday for actor Gene Autry's father, Delbert, 85, a former livestock dealer who lived in the Bakersfield area for 28 years. Autry, a native of Texas, died Tuesday. Survivors besides his actor son include his widow, Ruby, and six daughters. Services were conducted at the Greenlawn Memorial Chapel.

Executive Quits L.A. Harbor Job

Anatole Powell resigned Friday as acting chief of the Los Angeles Harbor Department's real estate section after assuming the post when his predecessor quit amid a scandal over a construction contract for a World Trade Center on Terminal Island.

Dockers Work; Row Unsettled

About 2,000 longshoremen returned to work Friday after a 10-day work stoppage brought about by the discovery of rats aboard a big freighter.

But members of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union remained adamant while resuming work.

"We're not sending anyone into the No. 5 hold of the President Taylor," a spokesman for the ILWU's Local 13 said.

THE PACIFIC Maritime Association, which represents most shipping lines in negotiations and relations with the ILWU, labeled the President Taylor a "grieved ship" when the stevedores refused to work her and halted unloading procedures on all newly arrived ships. By Thursday, this move had virtually idled all longshore work in both Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors.

"We've got 44 vessels in port," said John MacEvoy, manager of the PMA. He said the ILWU was unable to produce enough longshoremen to work the backlog of laden vessels.

"They're unloading 25 ships," MacEvoy said. "The other 19 are idle for lack of manpower. Men will work nights and weekends in an effort to catch up on the backlog."

THE PMA HAS sought court action—scheduled for Tuesday in Los Angeles—to force the longshoremen to work the No. 5 hold of the American President line ship. Officials of that line had offered to fumigate the vessel, but the PMA overruled that offer. Fumigation was listed as one of the conditions under which the ILWU would return to the hold which they charge is "rat infested."

The center of the dispute—the President Taylor—is still tied up at Berth 91 in Wilmington. She had been scheduled to leave port a week ago today.

Hill Cave Collapses, Boy Saved

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

A schoolboy was trapped in a hillside cave he dug Friday in the Yorba Linda oil fields, but was rescued unhurt just as the cascading dirt reached his nose.

Bill Hart, 12-year-old seventh-grader at Yorba Linda Intermediate School, was rushed to St. Jude Hospital in Fullerton, but was released to his mother, Genevieve, after physicians said the boy suffered "nothing more than a good scare."

Foreman Dick Bloom, of the Shell Oil Co. lease, who reached the lad with Roy Mitchell and Howard Cornelius of his crew, said young Hart "was very scared, but he also was very brave."

THE RESCUERS said they saw the boy smile at them as they approached on a run, and he asked them to "hurry up." They used their hands to scoop out the crumbling clay and yanked him free, just as a rescue rig from Yorba Linda Fire Department arrived.

Bill and his brother John, 11, sons of Mr. and Mrs. William Hart of 4392 Camella St., Yorba Linda, were exploring with a friend, David Kayley, 11, when they decided to dig a cave.

J. L. Parkinson, assistant general manager of the department, said Powell, an employee of 17 years, was believed to be involved in a possible "conflict of interest."

Powell was about to be suspended amid a cloud of "circumstances that (have) been under investigation for about two months," Parkinson said.

Bernard J. Caughlin, L.A. Harbor Department general manager, had ordered Powell's suspension, according to Parkinson.

Powell's predecessor, Michael J. Trujillo, resigned last December, charging favoritism in the awarding of a Harbor Department lease and claiming he had been passed over for promotion because he challenged Harbor Commission actions.

Trujillo was a witness at the Los Angeles County Grand Jury's inquiry into a $12-million contract for construction of the World Trade Center, which resulted in indictments against three former harbor commissioners.

Parkinson said civil service records would show that cause Powell's ordered suspension had substance. The L. A. city attorney's office had advised against public disclosure of the records, the department executive said.

Howard Zuck, assistant general manager of the Los Angeles Personnel Department, said he was advised by the city attorney against revealing any details of the suspension, but:

"The cause of the action is fully stated in the (suspension) document and if he (Powell) wants us to release it, we will."

Plan Curb for Student Drug Flow

From Our L. A. Bureau

It has long been considered common knowledge that the easiest places to get many narcotics is on junior and senior high school campuses.

County supervisors will get a report Tuesday which may open the way to a real start towards controlling the flow of drug to teen-age students.

THE REPORT will be filed by the county Superintendent of Schools, and is expected to contain an outline on the possibilities of setting up a pilot program. In the use of off-duty police officers.

If that works, officials predict, the system will spread to all secondary schools in the county.

The Board of Supervisors ordered the report Nov. 19.

It Is Time to Register Your Auto

Registration renewal notices went out to California's 12.5-million drivers Friday, with the Department of Motor Vehicles again urging motorists to file early.

"The more vehicles we can re-register before and during the December holidays, the fewer will have to be processed under crowded deadline conditions later," Verne Orr, director of the DMV, said. Feb. 4 is the final date for registering without penalty.

As usual, drivers may obtain their annual renewal stickers at banks during January, or now at local DMV offices and auto clubs.

License stickers for 1969 will be silver, Orr noted, and are to be attached in the upper left hand indentation of the rear plate.

BULLET IN BRAIN

Joseph Barrios, 63, who twice rode NASA's Ames Research Center's centrifuge to move a bullet lodged in his brain to a less dangerous position is shown with his wife Lucia in his O'Connor Hospital room in San Jose. He received visitors Friday and is reportedly on the mend; Barrios was shot twice in a holdup at the restaurant where he works. Doctors are hoping no further operations will be necessary to remove the bullet from his brain.

MARIJUANA TAX

being arrested by police at a marijuana party at which she says she was not smoking. Criminal charges against her also were dropped.

Robert D. Lawrence, representative of the IRS district director, said IRS lawyers often are successful in making the assessments stick because any appeal of the tax is carried out in the civil courts where the amount of evidence necessary for conviction is much less than in criminal courts.

"The tax law requires only a presumptive evidence of guilt," Lawrence said. "Unlike criminal cases, we don't need to prove ours beyond a reasonable doubt. If our investigation yields enough evidence for us to presume that an illegal transfer has been made, then we assess the tax."

Under the tax law, persons who possess, transfer, "or in any manner facilitate the transportation or concealment" of marijuana are subject to the $100-per-ounce tax if they cannot produce an IRS order form. The law applies to persons other than doctors, pharmacists, exporters or government officials who wish to transfer or receive marijuana. The purpose of the transfer must be stated on the order form, including the names of the persons and the amount of marijuana involved.

With an order form, available from the IRS, the tax is only $1 per ounce. But failure to produce the form after arrest is basis for levying the higher tax, Lawrence said.

"The intent of Congress in setting up this law was to control the flow of marijuana," Lawrence said. "The law is not a revenue law." Nevertheless, the IRS admits that in 12 counties extending from Santa Barbara to San Diego, assessments so far this year have totaled nearly $50 million.

"We won't see but a fraction of that money," Lawrence said. "Most of the people hit by the tax are young people or teenagers who cannot possibly pay it."

"We know that the tax is usually not known to youngsters, and because our interest is to control the use of the narcotic, we hope increased publicity of the law will help deter marijuana users in the first place."

ALTHOUGH LAWRENCE noted marijuana assessments are difficult and even costly for his office to collect, the IRS moves quickly in levying the tax. In most cities, including Long Beach, the IRS has established a close liaison with federal and municipal narcotics officers who supply the IRS with arrest reports.

"We can't wait for the district attorney to file charges because the outcome of criminal proceedings are irrelevant to us, and because we must move rapidly if we are to make the assessment without the individual skipping out," he said.

Although the law requires the IRS to attach a lien on all property, real or intangible, there are restrictions to prevent it leaving a person destitute. A lien is never removed, but a compromise may be reached to provide a suspension of tax collection efforts. Many times a final collection is never made.

Eight Seek County Administrator Post

Eight county executives were entered Friday in the race for county chief administrative officer (CAO) as filings closed for the $38,520-per-year post.

Six department heads submitted civil service applications along with two top aides to the present CAO, Lindon S. Hollinger, who will retire next spring.

No date has yet been set for the civil service examination which will determine which men get a crack at the most powerful job in county government.

By law, county supervisors must choose Hollinger's successor from the three top candidates.

Competing for the appointment are:

—County Treasurer Harold J. O'Leary, 56, 32-year veteran of county government who has held his present post since 1956. He is a graduate of the University of Southern California.

—Real Estate Management Director Arthur G. Will, 43, son of the late Arthur J. Will, who was CAO from 1952 to 1957. Will, a USC graduate who has worked for the county since 1958, doubles as small craft harbor director.

—Personnel Director Gordon T. Nesvig, 47, who took over his present post in 1966 after serving as clerk of the board of supervisors. He attended Los Angeles State College.

—Welfare Director Ellis P. Murphy, 50, head of the sprawling department of Public & Social Services, he went to work for the county as a social worker in 1945 and holds an M.A. degree in social work from USC.

—T. E. Durkee, 46, chief of the CAO's management services division, in charge of auditing and streamlining county government operations, holds both an M.A. and Ph.D. from Stanford University.

—Roy Hoover, 46, chief of the CAO's special services division, with a B.A. and M.A. from the University of Minnesota.

—Public Administrator Baldo M. Kristovich, 53, who also holds the title of public guardian. Holder of a law degree from Loyola University, he has also worked in the county counsel's office.

—County Engineer John A. Lambie, 55, a 33-year veteran of county government who has held his present post since 1955. He holds B.S. and M.A. degrees from USC.

Black, White Yule Parades Put Color Line on Season

DURHAM, N. C. (AP) — Negroes staged their own pre-Christmas parade, complete with a black Santa Claus, Friday in competition with the traditional parade in the downtown area by white merchants.

The competing parades resulted from a long-standing feud between leaders of Durham's Black Solidarity Committee and the Merchants Association and Chamber of Commerce.

The Black Solidarity Committee has been boycotting downtown stores for four months in an effort to gain acceptance of a 15-page list of demands for changes in the city's power structure.

Crowds lined the streets of both parade routes. The merchants parade through downtown Durham drew almost exclusively white onlookers. The racially opposite was true for the competing parade through a predominantly Negro business and residential section.

A traditionally white Santa Claus was a feature of the merchant parade which also included 15 floats, four high school bands and several marching units.

The Negro parade, included four floats and one musical combo.

A plan to have two bands, from predominantly Negro high schools, participate in the black solidarity parade was called off earlier by school officials.

The Black Solidarity Committee said its parade was intended to keep Negroes away from downtown Durham on the day when merchants officially launched their Christmas shopping season.

The solidarity group, calling for a "black Christmas" in Durham, has urged Negroes to do their holiday shopping in nearby towns.

Bubbling Gas Danger to Town

MARSHALL, Mich. (AP) — An apparent freak of nature kept gas bubbling up in explosive quantities in water wells and marshes off the southwestern fringes of Marshall Friday.

Sheriff Joseph W. Liebherr ordered a half-mile area closed off to residents as well as newsmen.

One home was blown to pieces by an explosion gas eruption was discovered in Marshall Township.

Holiday Traffic Toll in Climb

By Associated Press

The count of traffic deaths in the long Thanksgiving weekend pushed up steadily late Friday. The total reached 312 for the period that began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and will end at midnight Sunday. California and Texas led the nation with 23 fatalities each.

During a recent nonholiday weekend of equal length, the Associated Press tabulated 530 motor vehicle fatalities.

While the bulk of the holiday period deaths occurred singly, a few accidents cost three, four or five lives.

Wet weather increased the hazards of driving in some areas, but much of the nation had dry, chilly conditions.

THE NATIONAL Safety Council, which issues advance estimates of traffic deaths for other major holidays, does not do so for Thanksgiving. It regards that holiday as a time when people are inclined to stay close to home, and there is no unusual volume of motor travel.

During the Thanksgiving weekend last year—the count always runs four days—the traffic toll was 685.

The record was set in 1966. That total of 748 also stands as the high mark for any holiday period.

The lowest number of motor vehicle fatalities during a Thanksgiving observation in recent years was 442. It was compiled in 1960.

Firebombs Tossed at Courthouse

SIMI (UPI)—Six molotov cocktails hurled at the new municipal courthouse Friday, caused "very slight" damage, sheriff's deputies reported.

Deputies said they were seeking three teenagers a witness said were "playing with fire" near the building.

Three of the gasoline firebombs landed on the courthouse roof, but burned themselves out. Three were tossed against the building's walls, but one failed to ignite. Firemen quickly quenched flames on the walls caused by the other two missiles.

Increase Sought in Gas Rate

Southern California Gas Co. announced application for a rate increase Friday that could boost residential gas bills by 35 cents a month.

The increase, if approved by the California Public Utilities Commission, would take effect March 7.

The company said it submitted an application for a $12,943,000 yearly increase to offset higher costs of gas purchased from El Paso Natural Gas Co. and other suppliers.

It said the boost in rates is the first requested by the utility since August, 1960. Since then, it added, the company has reduced rates six times—the total cut exceeding $41 million a year.

20 Bullets Fired Into Police HQ

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — At least two men in a speeding car fired about 20 bullets from an automatic weapon into the Fifth Police Precinct Friday night, narrowly missing one policeman.

Jersey City Police Chief Stephen T. Nestor said that one of the bullets passed through the hat of Sgt. Edward Quirk, but he was unharmed.

Nestor said policemen who saw the attack believed there were two Negroes in the car, described as a light-colored sedan.

Nestor said seven members of the Black Panthers from bordering Newark were arrested in Jersey City Thursday on charges of carrying concealed weapons and were being held on $10,000 bail apiece. He said the attack on the police station may have been related.

"We don't think it's anyone from around here," he said. "We don't think anyone who lives around here would do something like this."

Six of the Black Panthers who were arrested were being held in Jersey City, Nestor said, while the seventh, a woman, was transferred to a Seacaus jail.

OUTLOOK IS BLEAK FOR SOUTHLAND

Increasing cloudiness and a chance of showers or light snow in upper mountain elevations mark this weekend's weather outlook.

Long Beach and other Southland coastal cities are expected to have mostly fair weather with increasing cloudiness and mild, 70-degree daytime highs, followed by lows in the high 40s.

Mountain areas, where temperatures are dropping, could experience light rain or snow showers, and deserts will experience increasing cloudiness and mild temperatures.

MINE

tions of carbon monoxide and methane gas.

He said the circumstances in the mine's pits had been studied "by men who are the most knowledgeable in the world in underground mining and rescue efforts associated with mine fires and explosions."

More than 30 men jammed into the Consolidation headquarters at Monongah, about a dozen miles from the scene, for the final decision. Representatives of the state and federal governments, as well as the United Mine Workers, attended and concurred in the decision.

LEWIS EVANS, safety director of the big miners union, told newsmen in a quivering voice:

"It's a sad commentary that it takes a tragedy like this to shock the conscience of the nation and the world."

"Something real must come out of this situation and something real must be done for people," he said. "The coal miners of this country have had it up to here, this is the last."

This was the second time in 14 years that Mountaineer No. 9 had to be sealed. An explosion hit the mine in 1954 killing 18 men. The mine was sealed for nearly five months before exploratory teams entered it.

CORCORAN said the company, union and state and federal government officials acted after "many devastating explosions, extensive underground fires, negative reports by the rescue teams and many lethal air samples."

Another explosion—the 16th since the first one ignited the fire on Nov. 20—split flames and smoke out of one of the mine's portals early Friday. Rescue teams entered the mine Sunday but fear of more explosions prohibited more than probing its shafts.

"From the beginning," Corcoran said, "I have stated that the mine would not be sealed until every avenue of reaching the men in the mine had been explored."

"Every avenue possible to reach the men now has been used," he added.

"Equally important is the unalterable fact that further delay endangers the lives of others," Corcoran said. He said sealing the mine was necessary to avoid "risk of serious injury or death to mine-sealing crews, residents of areas around portals and shafts, the recovery teams who must someday return to the working areas to ascertain the true causes of the disaster."

THOSE who waited so long—like young Barbara Toler who is expecting a baby momentarily, or Mrs. Frank Matish whose husband was a miner for 30 years—all had faith their men would return.

Most gathered daily in the little red brick Methodist Church to pray, to cry, to be comforted. They gathered in clusters around the company store—always the center of the coal community's life but for days a waiting station for word of death.

THIS was the second major mine disaster to afflict West Virginia this year. Last May, 25 men were trapped in the flooded tunnels of a mine at Hominy Falls on the other side of the state from Mannington, but 21 escaped.

Six men lived through ten days without contact with the outside but four of the men with them died. The four who died were among 67 killed in mine accidents in the state earlier this year.

As Corcoran met with newsmen, big concrete mixers lumbered to the Llewellyn portal of the mine. Concrete and steel will be used to close the portals and the ventilation shafts, which were the lifelines to any living for the nine days, will have air-tight shelters built around them.

JOHN CORCORAN Announces Sealing

Hope Gone, They Wept and Prayed

MANNINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—They gathered in the little red-brick church to hear the inevitable. Some cried, some prayed. Then they went home to wait again, this time with all hope gone.

Telephone calls went out Friday afternoon to the families of 78 men trapped in the Mannington No. 9 Mine. They were asked to come to the James Fork United Methodist Church, a one-room structure adjoining the mine property.

About 200 showed up, many of them lining the wall in the overcrowded room, to get the news from John Corcoran, president of Consolidation Coal Co.

Corcoran walked down the aisle to the altar, turned to the assemblage and said somberly:

"When I first came here a few days ago, I made a promise that when the 'to put out the fire by you. That time has come now."

Corcoran said "every human effort to save the men had been made," that he could no longer jeopardize the lives of other men such as drilling crews and rescue teams.

"There is only one alternative now," he said, time came I would be with sealing the mine."

Then Corcoran asked the Rev. John Barnes to offer a prayer.

KATMANDU, Nepal (UPI) — A 17-member team, including Dr. Duane Ewers of Los Angeles has climbed seven mountains in the Sanja Range of the Nepalese Himalayas, official reports reaching here said Friday.

The highest of the conquered peaks is 19,140 feet. The team is the first to climb in Nepal since the lifting of a four-year ban on foreign expeditions.

FIRED WORKER VOWS FIGHT General Telephone Co. Reduces Rates $7.5 Million

By BILL HOMER Staff Writer

General Telephone Co. Friday announced a $7.5-million Southland rate reduction, and spokesmen for the firm said "Telephone Underground" leader Jerry W. Finefrock has been fired.

The rate reduction, which affects Long Beach, the West Los Angeles-Santa Monica area and portions of the San Gabriel and San Fernando Valleys, will take effect Monday, spokesmen said.

The change in residence and business call charges—as well as reduction from $10 to $5 in charges for color telephones at time of installation—will bring General Telephone rates in line with those of the Pacific Telephone Co.

FINEFROCK, 24, an equipment installer who testified against the firm at state Public Utilities Commission hearings, was notified of his dismissal Friday. He had been suspended from his job Nov. 2 after his appearance before the PUC.

"I feel that this action against me by General Telephone... is completely unwarranted," said Finefrock, self-proclaimed leader of a group of dissident General Telephone employees calling themselves the "Telephone Underground."

General Telephone is "trying to intimidate me because many of the facts I disclosed to the PUC have struck hard at the company. I plan to fight my termination with the union's help and with all the powers at my disposal, to protect the rights of all employees to speak out in the public interest."

LEONARD LICATA, General Telephone area general manager, told Finefrock by letter that his suspension and dismissal were not due to his PUC testimony, but "because it appeared that you had breached your obligation of loyalty to the company, violated the employees' code of business ethics, and surreptitiously and under false pretenses obtained certain information from company sources."

The letter, dated Friday, further stated, "The company fully investigated the entire matter and concluded that dismissal is justified."

"The company's actions in suspending and finally dismissing you were not a result of your appearance before the PUC."

dent of General Telephone's revenue requirements division, said some toll rates for long distance calls between 30 to 80 miles from the originating point will be reduced.

Also, the Sunday long distance rate will become applicable to the entire 24-hour day on Sundays, he said.

THE REDUCTION for intrastate long distance charges will be effective for all calls made on and after Monday.

Bills sent to customers during December will not reflect the decreases in basic telephone charges, Ohlson said, but starting Jan. 1 all bills will show credit for the downward adjustment.

Ohlson said the reduction was made possible by a recent agreement between General and the Pacific Telephone Co.

General Telephone also serves Pomona, Upland, Ontario and Oxnard, where rates will also be adjusted to make them comparable with neighboring areas served by Pacific.

Soviets Revive Powerful National Police Ministry

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union Friday announced a sweeping reorganization of the nation's police system to strengthen "law and order."

A statement from the Communist Party Central Committee and the Council of Ministers announced revival of the Ministry of the Interior which had been abolished in 1960 by former Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The measures included steps for increased party influence in the police forces at all levels and appeared to indicate increased central control of Soviet police bodies.

involving the two redeployed brigades and the four squadrons were brought forward by about six months to give weight to NATO's warning to the Soviets that the Atlantic Alliance cannot remain indifferent to developments in the Moscow orbit.

These developments are not restricted to the aggression against Czechoslovakia.

The other developments include:

—Increasing Soviet presence in the Mediterranean.

—Greater Soviet activity both on land and on sea around the North Cape where Norway, a NATO member, has a common border with the Soviet Union.

—Consistent increases in the defense budgets of the Eastern European Communist countries coupled with improved quality of military equipment and better integration of the Warsaw Pact forces.

—Establishment of Soviet naval infantry, the Russian version of Marines.

The informants decline to discuss details of intelligence reports about the observed greater Soviet activity on Norway's border. This activity, they said, confirms the general observation that the Soviets are moving closer to the border of their sphere of influence as happened in Czechoslovakia.

The U.S. answer to these moves is not dramatic but very important, the informants declared. In addition to sending the Green Berets and to the earlier return to Germany of the two brigades, about 12,000 combat soldiers, and the four air squadrons with 3,500 men, they listed these countermoves as follows:

—In the light of the experience of the Arab-Israeli war, the decision was made to protect American and allied planes in Europe with concrete revetments.

—Many American fighter-bombers in Germany will be replaced by Phantom jets, the most modern supersonic plane in the American arsenal.

—The two brigades and four squadrons will stay in Germany much longer than originally planned: the planes probably for several months, the brigades for at least six weeks.

50,000 Russ Soldiers in Czech Cities

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union pulled all but three of its army divisions out of Czechoslovakia, U.S. sources said Friday.

These sources estimated the Soviet occupying force remaining in Czechoslovakia at between 45,000 and 50,000 men, including some support troops.

At the height of the Czech crisis, American military authorities said the Soviet Union had moved 17 divisions into Czechoslovakia.

The three remaining Soviet divisions, sources said, are concentrated mainly in the Prague and Bratislava areas, apparently as a presence intended to cow the populations of those two major cities.

Czechs Publish 'Wry' Cartoons

PRAGUE (UPI) — The recently banned political magazine Reporter reappeared in Prague Friday with a yearbook edition that contained cartoons with wry double meanings.

It was a politically touchy cartoon that originally brought the ban on the magazine early in November.

The yearbook was apparently prepared during a three-week suspension of publication ordered by the government under the terms of a censorship law passed after the August invasion by the Soviet Union. The ban was lifted two days ago.

BRUSSELS (UPI) — France is increasing its military cooperation with the Western Allies, according to defense experts who concluded a study of the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance Friday.

The experts were from parliamentary defense committees of seven NATO nations who have spent two days talking with top NATO officials, including Supreme Commander Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer.

"We came away with the impression that France is snuggling up closer to NATO since the Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia," one of the experts said.

He also said the experts found that reports NATO was "caught militarily asleep by the Russian invasion were exaggerated."

It was noted the French are cooperating in watching Russian warships in the Mediterranean without actually being part of the NATO force.

"We also had three Gaullist deputies sitting in on the talks," the expert said. He said this indicated "military relations are warmer" than in the two years since President Charles de Gaulle pulled the French forces out of NATO's integrated military set-ups.

The French navy in the Mediterranean also is showing willingness to cooperate — albeit unofficially — with the NATO fleet, and top-ranking French army staff have been stepping up contacts with their NATO counterparts.

Although France has the

A-bomb, it lacks tactical nuclear weapons and more delays in developing them are expected because of the financial situation which has forced France to give up nuclear testing temporarily.

They also noted France agreed at a Nov. 16 NATO ministerial session the alliance must continue "as long as it appears necessary."

Nixon Reportedly Seeking Rockefeller Aide Services

Combined News Services

NEW YORK — Richard M. Nixon is thought to be seeking the full-time services of Henry A. Kissinger, a defense and national security specialist from Harvard University who serves as Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's adviser of foreign affairs.

Kissinger conferred Friday with the president-elect in his temporary headquarters in the Pierre Hotel for the third time in five days. The two men met previously on Monday and Wednesday.

Nixon sources would not confirm that a firm offer had been made, but conceded that the president-elect would welcome into his administration a man of Kissinger's range and abilities. Sources in the academic community of which Kissinger is a part and elsewhere, asserted that overtures had been made but that Kissinger had made no final decision.

IT IS believed that if Kissinger accompanied Nixon to Washington he would occupy one of two posts, either chairman of the Policy Planning Council at the Department of State or special assistant to the president for national security affairs. The latter post is currently held by Walt W. Rostow and was occupied during the Kennedy administration by McGeorge Bundy.

Kissinger, 45, was born in Germany and became a naturalized citizen in 1943. Presently head of the Harvard International Seminar and director of the defense studies program at Harvard, he was a consultant to the National Security Council and Disarmament Agency since 1961.

HENRY KISSINGER
Confers with Nixon

He is regarded as a specialist on European security, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and the Mediterranean. He and Nixon share cautious views toward the Soviet Union and their belief that the United States must maintain strategic strength both as a deterrent to hostilities and as a bargaining counter in negotiations.

NIXON also met Friday with director Robert Strauss-Hupe and associate director William Kintner of the Foreign Policy Research Institute of the University of Pennsylvania.

In addition, the president-elect and his aides met with Roy Ash, chairman of the board of Litton Industries, the international technological corporation that handles defense and space contracts.

Meanwhile, Nixon called on the lads of six Midwestern states to give a "full and frank exposition" of their views to his special emissary, former Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton.

Nixon confirmed Friday that he has asked Scranton to undertake a fact-finding "reportorial" tour of the Middle East next week, similar to the trip he made to Western Europe for Nixon in October.

SCRANTON'S schedule calls for him to see heads of state and governmental leaders in Israel, the United Arab Republic, Iran, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia and Jordan.

The mission again raised speculation Scranton might become Nixon's secretary of state or ambassador to the United Nations in the new administration.

Scranton, however, has said he does not want a permanent post with the Nixon administration, but will take on special missions for the president-elect.

Nixon's aides confirmed Friday that the president-elect has received and was studying voluminous advice on foreign affairs. The advice was contained in a 600-page document entitled "Agenda for the Nation" compiled by the Brookings Institution and containing essays on foreign and domestic policy by a variety of experts.

Hruska, Scott Square Off for GOP Senate Whip Post

By JACK KNEECE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nebraska's Roman L. Hruska plans a hard campaign for the post of assistant Republican leader, or party whip, in the Senate, but says he doesn't want "a bloody field with bodies lying around."

"I am not standing idly by. I am seeking the post," Hruska, just back from a trip abroad, told an interviewer.

The whip job was opened up by the primary defeat of California's liberal-moderate Republican Thomas H. Kuchel. The only other announced candidate for the job is Pennsylvania's Hugh Scott, also a liberal-moderate.

ROMAN L. HRUSKA

field with bodies lying around," Hruska said in discussing the contest. "But I have made it known to my colleagues that I aspire to it and that I hope they feel I could make the judgments the post of whip requires."

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen has indicated he would like to avoid a party-splitting fight by a compromise under which Hruska would be the assistant leader and Scott would be chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, a position that will offer little more than a platform for dissent.

The policy committee vacancy is due to the retirement of Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa.

The two jobs will be filled when Republican senators caucus at the opening of the new congressional session in January.

Scott backed Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York in his unsuccessful bid for the Republican presidential nomination this year while Hruska was an early and vocal supporter of President-elect Richard M. Nixon.

SCOTT'S backers say they have been assured that Nixon will stay out of the fight.

Other Republican senators mentioned as possibilities for the two vacant leadership positions include Karl E. Mundt of South Dakota, Robert P. Griffin of Michigan and James B. Pearson of Kansas.

Hruska, 64, served one term in the House before being elected to the Senate in 1954 to fill an unexpired term. He was re-elected in 1958 and 1964, and comes up for re-election in 1970. He is on the influential Appropriations and Judiciary Committees.

Resuming Red China Talks OK'd

By STEWART HENSLEY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has decided to accept Communist China's proposal to resume ambassadorial talks between the two countries Feb. 20 in Warsaw, officials said Friday.

The charge d'affaires of the Chinese envoy in Poland, Chen Tung, will be advised of this within the next day or two.

The decision was cleared by the Johnson Administration with President-elect Richard M. Nixon's representatives in line with an agreement on coordination in foreign policy decisions during the transition period.

THERE WAS considerable speculation in official quarters here as to Communist China's possible reasons for wanting to resume the Warsaw talks, the only official contact between the two countries since a lapse of 13 months.

The assumption was that the Peking government wanted to find out whether it had a chance of winning any concessions from the Nixon administration which it was denied during the 134 previous Warsaw sessions during the past 13 years.

Some officials hope the timing of the Chinese proposal, coming when there has been some progress toward a Vietnam peace conference, might indicate the Chinese are anxious to ease the strain with Washington to some extent in an effort to become part of any final international agreements regarding Southeast Asia.

OTHERS felt that the Peking foreign office, emerging from the uncertainty and turmoil of the waning cultural revolution, was simply getting around to picking up some diplomatic threads again.

There was some interest in the fact that the Peking note to the United States spoke of reaching an agreement with Washington on the "five principles of peaceful coexistence" — the sort of live-and-let-live philosophy which emerged from the Asian-African conference in Indonesia in 1955.

However, the Chinese note coupled this with the assertion that before any progress could be made in improving relations, the United States must withdraw its 7th Fleet from the Formosa Strait and end its protection of the Chinese nationalists on Formosa.

THIS DEMAND, consistently put forward by the Chinese Communists, has been the insurmountable barrier which has blocked all past efforts.

The Nixon administration cannot accede to this demand, any more than could previous administrations, because of the mutual-security treaty with Nationalist China. This treaty, in fact, was put into effect under the Eisenhower administration when Nixon was vice president.

STREAMLINING WILL SPEED YULE MAIL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Post Office Friday made its annual promise to try its best to deliver your Christmas mail on time. This year, it hopes to do the job faster and more cheaply than ever by using fewer people and more coordination.

The streamlined delivery system, under which a "command post" in the Post Office Department will pinpoint, problem areas and order solutions, was designed by outgoing Postmaster General W. Marvin Watson.

Part of the plan is to use experienced postal workers on overtime instead of hiring extra holiday season help. Last year, Watson said, Post Offices across the nation hired between 120,000 and 125,000 seasonal and part-time employees for the Christmas rush. This year, he estimated no more than 55,000 would be employed.

The command post, down the hall from Watson's office, will have an elaborate schedule of telephone checks with postmasters in the field on everything from the weather to the length of noontime lines at their parcel post windows.

Federal Payroll Down $60 Million

By D. B. CORNELL

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson got word Friday the government is doing better than Congress demanded in trimming the federal payroll.

In July, August and September, civilian jobs in departments and agencies of the executive branch dropped 104,613 — from 3,020,427 to 2,915,814. The consequent saving is about $60 million. And the roll-back is still on.

This was the word from Budget Director Charles Zwick in a memorandum to the President. It was released by the Texas

White House on what press secretary George Christian called "a regular ranch working day." Johnson used the day, he said, to dig into a pouch or two of items from Washington.

THE PRESIDENT probably will stretch his Thanksgiving holiday at the LBJ Ranch into the first of the week. Then he will be bucking up against an early decision on whether to follow through on a threat to summon the Senate into special session to vote on ratifying a treaty banning the spread of nuclear weapons.

Johnson won't be able to wait much beyond the first week in December if he hopes to get a Senate showdown before the Christmas holidays, Christian said no decision has been reached yet.

The report on federal employment covered all types of civilian jobs — full-time permanent, summer, part-time and temporary.

Zwick told Johnson full-time jobs in the three-month period declined by 23,563, with 92,000 more to go before hitting the figure decreed by Congress. He estimated this will take 18 more months.

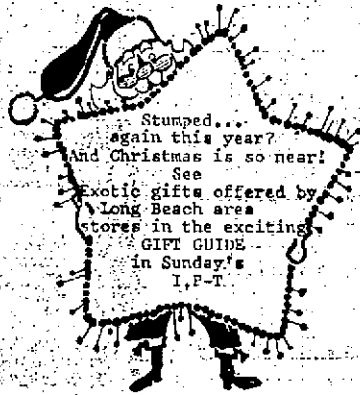

CONGRESS tied its demand for a slash in federal payrolls to its approval of a 10 per cent, $10-billion tax increase. Later, it modified its action to require a reduction of full-time employment by about 115,000 instead of 250,000.

The 23,563 cut in this category was 3,700 more than the law required in the quarter-year ended Sept. 30, Zwick said.

Temporary and part-time jobs fell from 512,236 to 485,768 — a reduction of 26,468. Zwick said this also went beyond the congressional goal.

The money being saved on jobs is going into a reserve account in the Budget Bureau and will help meet an order by Congress for a $6 billion slash in government spending in the present fiscal year.

The biggest reduction in full-time employees in the July-September period was 9,400 chalked up by the Defense Department. The Veterans Administration was next with 3,350.

Puzzle of Friday, Nov. 29, Solved

PRISCILLA'S POP

YOUR HOROSCOPE
by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

[illegible]

LIDRA (Dec. 22 - Oct. 22): A normal holiday period begins for you. Money comes in somewhat more easily than usual, but you must be careful not to be too easily swayed by the lure of money. Your own health seems to hold up, but you encounter problems relating to the health of others.

SCORPIO (Dec. 22 - Nov. 31): The whole month is full of unusual expectations. You may have to work longer hours early in the month; however, necessity, less rewarding than desire, may lead you to work longer hours anyway in physical terms, the last two more mental.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21): The month is full of excitement and demands. The emotional stresses, conflicts over earnings and spending, this gives you a sense of being in a hurry. The old rules tend to conder.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 17): The month is full of the rich others as well as the poor. Your affairs, particularly earnings, suffer some setbacks in the month. Despite the very active first 10 days.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 18 - Feb. 18): The month is full of the avalanche of intellectual stimulation, entertainment and social activity. The month is full of major trends and opportunities of a year or so, but the results are determined surely and slowly.

PISCES (Feb. 19 - March 20): Perhaps the most difficult month comes and remains. During the first two weeks, you feel the money more than you can afford to lose.

Privacy Costs Folks Wampum

By FRANK MURRAY

INDIAN CREEK VILLAGE, Fla. (AP) — A new tax on privacy is making it more expensive to be rich on this millionaire's island city.

The $7,204.66 tax for 1968 has been levied by the county on the city's only road because city law bars the public from entering the island, described by guides on passing tour boats as "the most exclusive island anywhere."

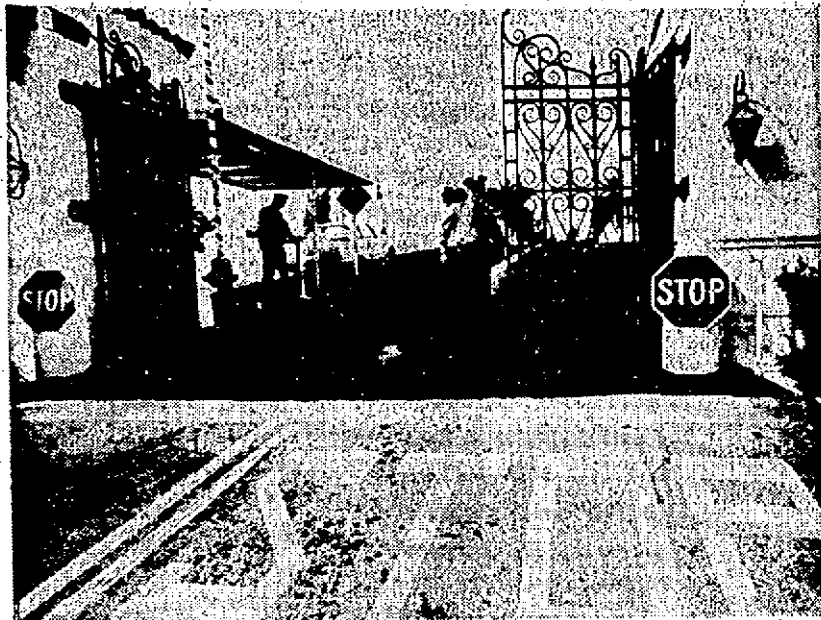

Two of the town's 10 policemen stand 24-hour guard at gates on the bridge to Miami Beach to help keep it that way. Since boating burglars looted the Norman B. Woolworth estate for $18,000 in furs and paintings in 1962, a city police boat has patrolled surrounding waters of Indian Creek and Biscayne Bay that serve as a moat to fend off bandits and busy-bodies.

EVEN prospective maids and gardeners must pass fingerprint checks.

There are only about seven building lots left on the one-half-square-mile island, priced about $70,000 each, according to Frederick M. Bowen Jr., village manager and police superintendent.

The highest tax assessment on a home here is $500,000, the lowest $130,000, Bowen said, adding apologetically, "That's one of the older homes on a cheaper lot." Every home has at least 200 feet of waterfront and backs up to a golf course.

The village has a budget of $145,000 this year. That includes such niceties as a $4,000 table and chair set for the occasional council meeting, tapestries in the Renaissance style and fashionably wormholes. A city lot-cutter keeps the vacant areas trimmed neatly as golfing greens. And the council, which

PATROLMEN GUARD THESE GATES 24 HOURS EACH DAY
Millionaires Pay $7,206 in County Taxes for This Private Road and Bridge voted down proposed electric street lights, is experimenting with gas lights.

EVEN if Indian Creek Village were not, as described, the wealthiest per capita town in America with every resident a millionaire, its population of 23 families is certainly among the nation's most exclusive.

A big bank account is not enough for residency, Bowen said.

"They have to be not just wealthy. They have character checks that go back to their schools and family and their clubs."

One requirement for purchase of a home is membership in the castle-like Indian Creek Country Club built in the 1930s before residents incorporated their island in 1939 to prevent annexation to nearby Surfside. Membership in the country club is open only to white gentiles.

NEWEST resident — at a $250,000-plus. pricetag for the Woolworth estate — is Richard D. Bokum II, 50, president of United Nuclear Corp. in Centerville, Md., and a fixture in Who's Who.

"It was six months from the time he put down his deposit until he was approved," Bowen said. "That's about average."

Mrs. P. F. Ciccoloni, wife of the caretaker and a servant at the island estate since it was built in 1949, said she likes living on the guarded island. "You're not bothered with this one and that one knocking on your door trying to sell you something, and everybody on this island is very nice, even the rich people."

U.S. IN STOCK CRACKDOWN

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal agents seized securities worth an estimated $1 million at three brokerage houses Friday in a crackdown against what they described as a scheme to pass margin requirements by purchasing stocks through a Swiss bank.

U.S. Attorney Robert M.

Morgenthau said a complaint was filed against the Arzi Bank of Zurich and one of its directors, Joseph Pfeffer. It alleged violation of the margin regulations for trading on the stock market, which require that buyers put up 80 per cent of the value of the stocks they are purchasing.

Dustin Hoffman, Mia to Co-Star

NEW YORK (AP) — Dustin Hoffman will co-star with Mia Farrow in "John and Mary," a romance set in New York, where the film will be shot beginning January 27.

Hoffman, star of "The Graduate," will make the film while starring in a Broadway show, "Jimmy Shine," which opens Dec. 5.

Urge Aid Continue in Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare proposed Friday a rule requiring continued welfare payments to a recipient while he is appealing cancellation or reduction of his benefits.

A state welfare agency also would be required to provide an attorney if requested to a recipient seeking such a hearing. The states would receive federal matching funds for the pre-hearing payments regardless of the outcome of the hearing.

The proposed rule would become effective next July 1. Interested parties have 30 days to comment before the proposal is ordered into effect.

The law now requires a state to provide a fair hearing for a recipient or claimant asking it to settle either his eligibility or the amount to which he is entitled.

The proposed policy addition, the department said, "recognizes that the fair hearing requirement cannot be truly effective if persons are deprived of the necessities of life while awaiting a hearing."

The requirement would apply to all federally aided programs of classified assistance. They are old age assistance, medical assistance, and aid to the blind, families with dependent children, and totally disabled persons.

Welfare agencies now must notify a recipient in advance of a planned reduction or discontinuance of welfare payments on a question of eligibility. If he asks it, he must be given a fair hearing and a final decision within 60 days.

U.S. SCHOOL FUND NEED VITAL-COHEN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary Wilbur J. Cohen of the Health, Education and Welfare Department Friday urged education leaders to look beyond property tax for vitally needed additional money — particularly to improve grade schools.

The nation's educational facilities "will have to grow and change to meet the demands of the future and new ways of raising money must be found to finance those changes," Cohen said.

Predict Families Will Join Hospitals

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A Harvard medical administrator predicts families may someday belong to a hospital, much like they belong to a church today.

Ray E. Brown, executive vice president of the Harvard Affiliated Hospital Center, said in an interview this may be a way to give Americans better access to medical care.

Brown said that as medicine becomes more advanced, it becomes more specialized, and more inaccessible to the general public. The problem is most acute among low-income groups, he said.

Brown said only about 20 per cent of the cases now handled in hospital emergency rooms are emergencies. The rest are people with medical problems who just don't know where else to go, he said. "They know that if they get into an emergency room, though, they'll be treated."

He said physicians should have their offices in hospitals and persons requiring medical treatment should be able to go to the hospital as a kind of one-stop health center. Too often, he said, a patient now goes to a doctor's office, is referred to a specialist's office, then goes somewhere else for laboratory tests and X-rays, and then is sent to a hospital.

HE ADDED, "I see the time coming when persons will join a hospital, just as they now join a church."

He said when he recently moved to Boston, he brought a letter from his church. "Once we got to Boston we took our letter and then joined a church. Now, for example, whenever we need a wedding or a funeral we know where to go."

"Wouldn't it be simple if we had been able to bring a letter from our hospital, in this case our medical records, and joined a hospital, and whatever our medical problems we'd know where to go."

It would also simplify medical billing, he said, doing away with separate bills from the physician, the hospital and from any specialists called in.

His idea is similar to prepaid health clinics some unions have established. Unlike them, though, a hospital membership would be available to everyone.

New Gun Law, He Donates 'Arsenal'

COLESVILLE, N. J. (UPI) — An arms collector who rented his arsenal of field guns, bazookas and machine guns for war movies has boarded up his barn museum rather than wade through the red tape of the government's stringent new weapons requirements.

Val Forgett donated rare and valuable weapons from his collection to the Armed Forces Museum at West Point and the Smithsonian Institution in Washington. The late Sir Iliam Maxim's first model of his famed machine gun went to a Marine Corps display in Quantico, Va.

Then Forgett called the U.S. Treasury Department to haul away the remainder of his 10-ton collection.

Anyone having machine guns, land mines, field guns or other such heavy weapons has until midnight Sunday to register the armaments.

"IT WAS just too much red tape, too much bother," Forgett said. Each weapon would require separate special licensing, he said.

Agents in government vans trucked away more than 100 American bazookas, rocket launchers, 100 Finnish mortars, 100 Swedish grenade launchers and other military gear from Forgett's Cannon Hill farm.

Forgett had collected the arsenal, valued at more than $20,000, over the last 10 years. Most of the arms were purchased from Maxim.

Over the years, Forgett had made "a good income" from renting the guns for motion pictures and television films through his Service Armament Co.

$4-Million Mafia Kin Tax Lien

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) — Federal officials have followed up the arrest of nine men on racketeering charges by slapping tax liens totaling nearly $4 million on three of them and their relatives. It was disclosed Friday.

A spokesman for the Internal Revenue Service in Buffalo said the action was prompted by the recovery this week of more than $500,000 in cash from the home of Peter A. Magaddino, a Niagara Falls undertaker identified by the FBI as the No. 2 man in the Buffalo-area Cosa Nostra.

The liens, filed with the Niagara and Erie county clerks, have the effect of freezing the assets of those involved while a complete check of tax records is made, the IRS said.

Magaddino and his wife, Frances, received the largest lien, $978,722, the IRS said.

THE OTHERS named in liens were Stefano Madaddino of Lewiston, $532,272; Antonino Magaddino of Niagara Falls, $614,229; Peter J. Magaddino, whose last known address was Brooklyn, $542,244; Benjamin Nicoletti Sr. of Lewiston, $544,877; and James F. and Angeline LaDuca of Lewiston, $558,592.

Stefano Magaddino, 77, father of Peter A. Magaddino, has been described by authorities as the czar of Cosa Nostra operations in western New York and nearby areas of Ontario, Canada.

He has been under virtual house arrest in the racketeering case since Tuesday, with federal agents outside his home. His arraignment has been postponed on a day-to-day basis because he has a serious heart condition.

WEST HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Burglars stripped the Pleasure Dome Dress Shop here of $15,000 in cash and $9,500 in merchandise after entering the building by cutting through its concrete and plaster wall sometime between Wednesday night and Friday morning, sheriff's deputies reported.

YULE TRUCE OUTLOOK BLEAK

Combined News Services

WASHINGTON—U.S. authorities are beginning to consider the possibilities of military truces in Vietnam for the holiday season but as yet are making no predictions on the outcome.

State Department Press Officer Robert J. McCloskey said Friday that undoubtedly thought will be given to the subject, but "some of the past experiences have not been encouraging."

This was a reference to the Buddhist New Year truce last Jan. 31 which served as the kick-off for the big North Vietnamese and Viet Cong Tet offensive against South Vietnam's cities and towns. Now, American officials say, the situation is different because of the expanded peace talks scheduled to begin soon in Paris.

"We cannot predict what stand the South Vietnam government will take," one responsible official said. "The United States will consult extremely closely with Saigon and we would want to see how things are at the time before we predict how we will react."

In Saigon, Premier Tran Van Huong said Friday a cease-fire was possible during the Christmas season, but a South Vietnamese general said he opposed such a truce.

"For humanitarian reasons we may announce the usual (24-hour) cease-fire for Christmas, but we cannot forget the lessons of Tet," Huong said.

Gen. Do Cao Tri, commander of South Vietnamese troops in the Saigon area, said: "I don't think it (a cease-fire) is a good idea. If the Viet Cong have a truce let them have it. For us everything is the same, morning, noon and night. We have not forgotten Tet."

According to Washington sources, a proposal by the National Liberation Front for a military stand-down that began at Christmas and extended through the New Year period would arouse considerable suspicion here and in Saigon. The length of time proposed would be reminiscent of the last Tet truce.

Since American forces began combat operations in 1965, the initiative for a Christmas truce has been taken by the Viet Cong by mid November. The only intimation this year was a Nov. 7 report from Phnom Penh, the Cambodian capital, attributed to a National Liberation Front envoy, Nuygen Van Hieu, that the Viet Cong would order a Christmas Truce. There has been no further word on the subject from the clandestine Viet Cong radio.

U.S. officials note that the Viet Cong are eager to be in a strong position at the Paris talks and may want to announce their actions this year in advance. It is acknowledged, however, that with peace talks under way in Paris, world public opinion will be strongly in favor of a halt in the fighting during the holiday season.

PROCEDURAL PARLEY

Paris Ground Rules Defy Diplomatic Geometry

By PAUL HOFMANN
New York Times Service

PARIS — American, Vietnamese and French officials are grappling with a problem of diplomatic geometry that defies Euclid's theorems: How can an international conference be at the same time four-sided, two-sided and triangular?

As delegates of the belligerents in Vietnam and their Paris hosts start discussing arrangements for broadened peace talks, they grope for non-Euclidean formulas of calculated ambiguity. Their efforts may look as frivolous as a charade, but the Parisian ground rules they are trying to work out will have an influence on how long the fighting in Vietnam continues.

The present procedural squabble on description and organization of the expanded Vietnam parley is over the shape of the conference table, or tables, and over nameplate, flags on car fenders, license plates, invitations — and even refreshments.

THE UNITED STATES, North Vietnam, the Saigon regime and the National Liberation Front of South Vietnam, or Viet Cong, are henceforth to participate in the Paris peace conference. So far, only U.S. and Hanoi representatives have talked to each other in the parley, which began on May 13.

As seen from Washington and Saigon, the new phase that is about to start remains a two-sided affair. The North Vietnamese and the Viet Cong have kept insisting during the last few weeks that they couldn't accept anything less than a four-sided conference. And Radio Hanoi declared Thursday that the war in Vietnam might really be ended only by three-cornered agreement.

The geometrical squabbles in Paris stem from the fact that in the Vietnam war one man's ally is the other man's stooge.

HANOI AND its Viet Cong allies have enriched the French language, coining the term "Americofantoches" (American puppets) for the Saigon regime. The two Communist negotiating groups allow that they would sit down with delegates from Saigon in the same room, although they "represent nobody."

Conversely, the U.S. and the Saigon regime officially view the Viet Cong as just an appendage of Hanoi, an artificial creation that under no circumstances could be recognized as an autonomous military or political force.

To press their claim that the Viet Cong controls most of South Vietnam, Hanoi's and the Front's teams in Paris demand a four-sided conference table, or four tables in a square pattern. The Front representatives would also like to have their delegation's nameplate, and fly their own flags on cars with diplomatic license plates — just like the envoys of a legitimate government.

SO FAR American and North Vietnamese negotiators have talked to each other across a rectangular conference table. Now, round or triangular tables are also being suggested to play down the role of one or the other of the newly participating teams.

There is also the question whether the Viet Cong delegates should be invited separately to the enlarged conference sessions, and by whom.

At the majestic Hotel, near the Arc de Triomphe, where the first 28 sessions were held, the American and North Vietnamese delegations had separate bars. Toward summer they started mingling and established confidential contacts in what became known as diplomatic tea-breaks.

Laos Warns of Buildup by N. Viets

VIENTIANE (UPI) — The Laotian defense ministry said Friday a full North Vietnamese division — about 12,000 men — has moved into Laos since the United States stopped bombing North Vietnam.

Col. Thongphan Knocksy, the top ministry spokesman, said the North Vietnamese are busy repairing their Ho Chi Minh supply trail network in southern Laos where it winds into South Vietnam. The fresh North Vietnamese division, he said, is stationed in the Bolovens Plateau of Southern Laos, where Communist soldiers attacked the village of Thateng Wednesday.

He said Laos would protest the attack to the International Control Commission and demand an investigation.

Say Trio Still Cong Captives

BANGKOK (UPI) —

Three American prisoners of the Viet Cong supposedly released last July, apparently still are in Communist hands, diplomatic sources said Friday.

Australian businessman Keith Hyland, released in Cambodia last Monday after being held by the Viet Cong since the Tet offensive last February, said he had been told by a Cambodian that all three men had been released.

The diplomatic sources said there was no record of their release and said they knew no more of the trio than Hyland.

Hyland said the three men had been imprisoned with him at one time or another.

He identified them as James Rollins, an employee of Raymond - Morrison-Knudson, a military construction contracting firm, and Donald Brookings and Richard Utecht, U.S. Agency for International Development (AID) workers.

Hyland said all three disappeared during the summer from the camp where he was held. When he was in Phnom Penh, he said, a Cambodian told him they had been released, but he knew nothing officially.

SAY VIET REDS MAY USE POISON ON FOES

SAIGON (UPI) — The Communists may be planning to use a lethal poison from Red China against Allied soldiers in Vietnam, the semi-official Vietnam Press Agency said Friday.

It identified the poison as chloropyriminonitritol, a fast-acting substance that, when ingested, causes blurred vision, dizziness, stomach cramps and then death.

There were no reports the Communists had tried to slip the poison into Allied soldiers' food or water supplies, however. Vietnam press cited reports from Viet Cong defectors as the source of the report.

"The poison was tried on a dog by the Communists at Cai Tac village. The dog died a short time after having drunk water mixed with this poison," the agency said.

U.S. Is Silent on Content of Tapes by Pueblo Crew

BERLIN (AP) — U.S. authorities confirmed Friday that recorded tapes with statements from crew members of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo are in possession of Western authorities.

An American spokesman denied, however, that the tapes contained Christmas messages to families of Pueblo crewmen being held in North Korea.

"Greetings from Pueblo crew members," the spokesman said, "but contain material that already has been received by Pueblo next of kin."

He did not elaborate. The U.S. government has copies of the tapes in its possession and that the originals "now are being held by West Berlin authorities."

Doctors and Pharmacists Work Together To Help Patients Get the Most from Their Health Care Dollars

Pharmacists, like physicians, have read and heard complaints about the cost of health care. There are complaints that hospitals cost more, that doctors charge more, that health insurance costs more, that prescriptions are too high.

These things are generally true. The cost of medical care is up—and so is the cost of everything else. Haircuts cost more, food costs are more, automobiles cost more, plumbing and TV repairs cost more. But so are the costs of maintaining an office, a clinic or a pharmacy higher. And pharmacists share the concern of physicians, and want to help their patrons make the best possible use of health care dollars spent for prescriptions.

Pharmacists and physicians are working together more closely than ever before to see that the patient receives the best possible medication, at a price that is reasonable—increasing their cooperation in order to avoid and resolve problems to promote understanding. They work together for a common cause—the health of the patient.

HAVE YOU EVER STOPPED TO CONSIDER THE VALUE OF YOUR PRESCRIPTION?

1. Formerly "incurable" diseases are now curable.
2. Less work days are now lost due to illness.
3. Costly hospitalization is often eliminated.
4. The "fright" is taken out of some diseases which in the past would shock the family to the core.

7,100 to Stage 28th Western Band Festival

More than 7,100 teen-agers invade Long Beach today as the 28th renewal of the world's biggest high school marching band competition takes over the city's downtown streets.

The All-Western Band Review will step off promptly at noon along Ocean Boulevard from Falcon Avenue and march its way west to Cedar Avenue.

A total of 72 highly ranked musical aggregations from San Diego to the Oregon border will compete in today's competition, along with majorette teams, drum majors, twirling majorettes and mace drum majors.

Two of the participating bands will be ineligible for any awards. Long Beach Jordan High School will be participating as host and not entered in competition. Arcadia High School's Apache Band, which has won the All-Western title for the past three years, will sit out — or, rather, march out — one year as ineligible before returning to active competition in 1969.

The Mayor's Trophy, retired after the Arcadians won it for the third time in 1967, has been replaced for the 1968 competition.

Bands compete in six categories with Class AA including larger schools (Pasadena, at 3,421, is the biggest), and running down to Class E where small schools (tiny Gustine, with 390 students, is the smallest) competing on equal footing.

The host division of the parade, which will move out first, will include the Long Beach Police Department's motorcycle squad, the U.S. Marine Corps color guard, Mayor Edwin Wade, Miss Welcome to Long Beach — Karen McQuarrie, Jordan High's band and the Arcadia High band.

The rest of the parade's line of march — by division — runs as follows:

Division I — Merced, Upland, Mt. Miguel, East Bakersfield, Santa Monica, Helix, El Rancho, Pasadena, Western, Antelope Valley and East Union.

Division II — Hilltop, Selma, Alta Loma, Coronado, Los Banos, Chula Vista, Washington (Fresno), Santa Cruz, Armijo, Dos Palos, Glendale and Mayfair.

Division III — El Cajon Valley, Redwood, Barstow, Simi Valley, Norwalk, Mt. Whitney, Montclair, Tracy, Escondido, La Mirada, Kingsburg and John Swett.

Division IV — Tranquility, San Lorenzo Valley, Lindsay, San Joaquin Memorial, Chowchilla, Gustine, Coalinga, Bonita Vista, Alisal, Baldwin Park, Corona and Atwater.

Division V — El Capitan, Porterville, Orange Glen, Katella, Azusa, Castle Park, Savanna, Temple City, Magnolia, La Canada, Tulare and Excelsior.

Division VI — Anaheim, Madera, Garden Grove, Loara Saxon, Burbank (Sacramento), Santa Ana, Glendora, Pacifica (Garden Grove), Monte Vista, Monrovia and Villa Park.

Search Is On for Christmas Gifts

Annual Yule-shopping spree began in earnest Friday as Thanksgiving gave way to next calendar-marked holiday against backdrop of seasonally-appropriate street and store-window decorations. Unidentified man pictured above may be searching Pine Avenue litter receptacle for the lucky (long) end of a luckless turkey's wishbone or, on the other hand, hoping to retrieve a discarded first-thought "perfect-gift" idea tossed into the trash receiver by shopper with a long list and a lean wallet. In any event, Christmas isn't far away (a Wednesday this year), Santa Claus and his stand-ins are on the job, the feed-the-kettle brigades are out in force to provide badly-needed cheer for countless needy, and the holiday spirit is again ready to prove more infectious than 'flu or other human ills.

Naples Boat-Slip Rental is Blasted

Beautiful bay-front property in Naples is being turned into a commercial venture" by owners who install multiple boat slips and rent them to non-residents, Councilman Paul R. Deats said Friday.

Owners of "inner lots" on Naples are complaining about the increased traffic, Deats said, adding that bay-front property owners should police their own activities.

If they do not, he warned, the complaints may force the city to take action.

Deats explained the city issues one-year revocable permits to owners of property which borders the bay in Naples and in Upper Alamitos Bay, north of Second Street.

The permits were intended to give the property owners berths for their own boats. About six years ago, however, bay-front owners began installing multiple slips, capable of berthing as many as six boats, Deats said.

A recent survey by the city manager's office revealed there are 559 boats moored at slips in Alamitos Bay and Naples, outside of Long Beach Marina.

Deats said only 222, or 39.7 per cent, are owned by the resident of the immediately adjacent property.

The report said owners of 148 boats, or 26.5 per cent, live somewhere in Long Beach, but the remaining 189 live outside of the county.

Owners of property inland from the bay front, who do not have access to a private slip, have complained the renting of slips to nonresidents brings an influx of cars, particularly on week-ends.

"There are places on Vista del Golfo where the people can't get within a half-block of their homes," Deats said.

There also have been complaints about the week-end "out-of-towners" holding noisy cocktail parties aboard boats and polluting the bay water, Deats said.

A city spokesman said the city could revoke the permits if owners persisted in installing multiple slips and renting them, or could even take over all slips and operate them as part of the marina. The slips are on public property.

Fight to Revive Poverty Operation

By CHARLES SUTTON
Staff Writer

Local poverty officials have joined forces with two of Long Beach's state legislators to get the city's now-defunct State Service Center back in operation.

At a meeting attended by representatives of various social service agencies, Carl Wallace, head of the city's antipoverty program, discussed the possibility of reviving the center with State Sen. Joseph M. Kennick and Assemblyman Mike Cullen, both Democrats.

The meeting was held by the Economic Opportunities Commission, local antipoverty agency.

THE SERVICE CENTER, located at 555 E. Pacific Coast Highway, was one of 13 established in the closing months of the Brown Administration, and one of eight dismantled in 1967, by economy measures in the Reagan Administration.

However, under a compromise plan worked out by state and city officials, the Long Beach facility was turned into what is now the Community Rehabilitation Center, the state agreeing to pay part of the upkeep in the form of rent.

The modified center faces a possible shutdown at the end of this year, Wallace said, so he called the meeting to see if the facility could be kept alive and re-established as part of the State Service Center network.

Kennick said he contacted Spencer Williams, head of the State Department of Human Resources Development, and was told there is a good chance the state will allocate new funds to the facility.

CHICKEN CONVENTION CRISIS IN CACOPHONY

The sky didn't fall, "Chicken Little" didn't cluck, but nine hens on your front porch before dawn is too much chicken even for bird lovers.

It was too much for Nick Svicarovich, of 461 W. 17th St., San Pedro, awakened by what sounded like a poultry convention.

Svicarovich dismissed the thought and the sounds, rolled over and tried to go back to sleep. The noise continued.

Finally, Svicarovich got up, went to the front door, took one look and stumbled to the telephone.

"You've got nine chickens on your front porch?" questioned an incredulous Harbor Division police officer.

"Sure, Buddy!"

Officer V. T. Smiddy was dispatched to the scene, where Svicarovich pointed to the nine hens — very real and very audible — on the porch. He told the officer the chickens weren't his, then headed back to bed.

Smiddy caught the nine hens, loaded them in his squad car and carted them to headquarters where new problems loomed.

The officer in charge of the property room refused to allow the nine birds to roost in his domain, so Smiddy hauled them to the Animal Shelter.

The chickens — obviously Thanksgiving refugees — have probably leaped from the roaster into the frying pan — since if they are not claimed within eight days, they'll be headed for the kitchen.

L.B. Works to Eliminate Old Quake Hazard Structures

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

The earthquake that hit Long Beach and other Southland communities March 10, 1933, caused heavy property damage and loss of life—but both could have been sharply reduced if certain buildings had been better designed.

Prior to the 1933 quake, buildings were, almost without exception, designed to resist vertical loads only. They were not built to withstand horizontal movement such as that generated by the temblor.

The worst offender was the building with unreinforced brick walls. It was hardly better than a child's house of blocks, set one on top of the other. The mortar used in pre-1933 days was of a very low cement-to-sand ratio. Where it still exists today, it can be scraped out with a fingernail.

EDWARD M. O'CONNOR, Long Beach building superintendent, said 1,391 of the unreinforced masonry buildings—which the city designates as Type III—suffered structural damage in the 1933 quake. Eighty-five were demolished.

Since Jan. 9, 1934, all new buildings erected in Long Beach have been required to be earthquake-resistant, but the new law was not retroactive—it did not apply to existing structures.

The Building Department could not insist the Type III buildings damaged by the quake be repaired to meet earthquake-resistant standards, so most of these potentially hazardous buildings were "just patched up," O'Connor said.

IT WAS NOT until 1959 that Long Beach building regulations were amended to include the authority to require the correction, or elimination of existing earthquake hazards. Even then, there was a question of the legality of the city's ordering a building to be brought up to standard or demolished.

A state Supreme Court decision in 1968, involving a Bakersfield case, upheld the right of a city to enforce regulations for the health and safety of the public.

Since that time, city building officials have been working to eliminate the remaining unreinforced masonry buildings, either by condemnation and demolition, or by repair.

In the years prior to the 1966 state Supreme Court decision, there were only 15 demolitions of Type III buildings, and only nine repaired. Since June 1, 1967, condemnation notices have been sent to 37 owners. Four buildings have been demolished, two repaired, and the other cases still are pending.

THE OWNER of one of the pre-1933, unreinforced brick-walled buildings is notified by the Building Department of the hazardous condition and the pending condemnation action.

He then has the choice of demolishing the structure or repairing it, if feasible. The Building Department will permit the structure to be repaired if the owner and his architect or engineer determines such repair is possible.

The basic repair is that the brick walls must be reinforced, and the roof and floor structures be altered to provide the required support for the walls.

In the letter to the owner, O'Connor acknowledges the department's order will impose "a significant economic burden," but it points out the Building Department "has the legal and moral obligation to follow through on this matter."

"CONTINUED USE of these buildings in their present condition is a real risk to owners, employees and members of the public who come on or near the premises," the letter emphasizes.

"No one can predict when the next major earthquake will occur," O'Connor's letter warns. "Knowing one will occur sometime, we must work in advance to lessen the risk of death, injury and property damage."

Harsh December Forecast

By FRED HAMLIN
Staff Writer

Weathermen are a wary lot, and this year's forecast batting average for the Long Beach-Los Angeles area has added a few furrows to official brows.

But the professional prognosticators are willing to risk possible rebuke on predictions for December.

It will be a month of flurries throughout Southern California.

Fur-lined bikinis, winterized woolies and other warming items already are selling well in the shopping-for-Christmas flurry.

Wind flurries — some hot and dry from desert areas, others cold and wet from the Arctic storm-breeding grounds — are things you can bet the family barometer on.

Even flurries of snow are likely — if you live in the high hills and mountain parts of the Southland.

THERE'LL BE rain on the coastal plains, at times torrents that could be termed minimonsoons.

Things still being relative, a torrent of rain in these parts is considered hardly more than an annoying drizzle in the nation's really wet spots.

Long Beach's previous Decembers have produced more genuine rain than gutters, drainage systems, hillside properties, low-lying roadways and many a patchy, needy roof could handle.

Besides that, we've had sleet, hail, dripping fog and — some citizens assert — snow.

The snow business has provoked a lot of arguments and may never be settled unless this planet wobbles off its axis — as some scientists think has happened before and could again.

Only official snowfalls recorded in Long Beach occurred Feb. 19, 1958 (most recent); on March 1, 1951, and a three-day period in early January of 1949. None of the snow was deep enough to ski on, and to transplanted snow-country citizens it was just a bit of slush.

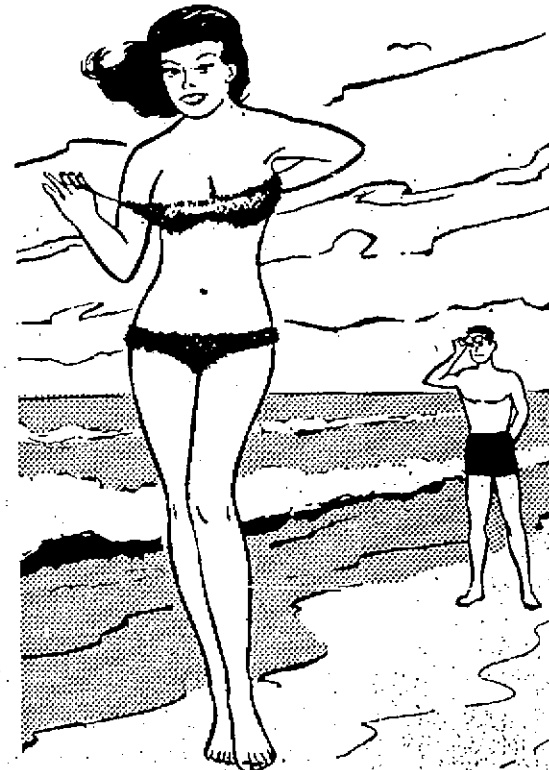

WEATHER BUREAU records, which locally date back more than a half-century, also indicate December will produce temperatures averaging out about 58 degrees daily — highs around 67 and overnight lows about 49.

Precipitation, whether pure rain or a mixture of same with sleet, hail or even snow, should measure four or more inches during the month. (Record for a December 24-hour period here is 2.51 inches, set in 1949; last year's wettest was 2.39 for Dec. 4-5.)

Already, winter — which arrives at 11 a.m. on Dec. 21 — is in the Southland air, or at least approaching this way. The latest in a series of storm systems has spread into Central California and snow level in the Sierra is predicted to be down to 4,000 feet by tonight.

Maybe it's just wishful thinking, but perhaps this is the year for a White Christmas in Long Beach.

The weatherman won't bet against it.

SEAL BEACH STRUTS NEW (COST $45,000) AND OLD ($7,500) FIRE TRUCKS

Seal Beach Fire Truck Ancient, But Rarin' to Go

Story and Photos By BOB SANDERS

Way back in 1929, the City of Seal Beach bought a shiny new fire truck. It was a 1929-model American LaFrance, mounted on a one-ton GMC chassis with a 1928 standard Buick six-cylinder engine. It cost $7,500. Today, it sits at the rear of the city's new No. 3 Fire Station at 3131 Beverly Manor Road.

IT'S NOT AS SHINY as it was — but it still runs. In fact it will be used to drive Seal Beach's own Santa Claus on his rounds to and from shopping centers every Friday and Saturday night during the Christmas season.

Fire Chief Ronald E. Adams is pretty proud of the "old buggy."

"Over the next few years," he says, "we intend to restore it completely to its former glory."

It will be used in civic parades, and the Seal Beach firemen want to make it something the city can be proud of.

Even in its present shape, it's proved to have been a good buy for the city.

THE LAST fire truck Seal Beach bought cost $45,000.

The man who probably knows the most about the old pumper — and the City of Seal Beach — is retired Fire Chief W. S. Knighton, whose name, he says, this paper consistently misspelled for 50 years.

Knighton started the Seal Beach Fire Department in November 1928 and ordered the new truck in September of 1929. It arrived a year later.

"We got 1,000 feet of 2 1/2-inch hose with it," he recalls, "and 500 feet of 1 1/2-inch hose."

"We drove it for eight years without a wind shield, because it came without one and the City Council wouldn't put up the $75 it took then to buy one."

"I FINALLY took one of the councilmen on a ride down Pacific Coast Highway one night, when the wind was blowing the sand across the road. We got our windshield."

"It took a fire in the

BEAT-UP CARS, BEARDS AND BIBLES ... Not Hippies, Not Put-On, They Are Very Serious Evangelists

By LES RODNEY

Beards, drooping mustaches, rough looking jackets. Picturesque old cars lettered up with slogans, standing jauntily on the front lawn of a house which is painted in big white strokes. You'll pardon those passing the corner of Linden Avenue and 10th Street a moment of confusion and double take. For the messages scrawled on the cars and across the picture windows are not some kind of collegiate fun or psychedelic hippie irreverencies. They proclaim that "Jesus Is Coming Again," "Believe the Gospel and Be Saved," "For God So Loved the World ... And 5 A.M.—Bring a Bible—Let It All Roll." The rugged looking young men wear "Jesus Saves" buttons.

It is not put on. It is an island of rough and tumble early Christian zeal in the midst of the secular suburban city. A REPORTER checking out the unusual sight one evening found a group of some 10 young men living cooperatively in the house, most holding regular jobs, some still pursuing their college education. A half dozen are longshoremen, which partly explains the lack of formal appearance. But only partly. Like some of their bearded young contemporaries of no religious faith, these young evangelists feel scorn for the conventions of those whom they consider hypocrites.

"Across the street," said a big fellow with a mustache to match, "there are some fraternity guys. They look different than we do, you know, like cleaner on the outside. Oh, we take baths, but we look different. Well, over there they may be clean on the outside, but dirty on the inside. We may look dirty on the outside, but we're clean on the inside." He tapped his ever-present Bible, carried in a leather sling pouch.

"Neatness isn't Christianity," put in another member of the group, sprawled around the front living room, which is furnished with old and battered chairs and couches. The young men, who have been at the location for some 10 months, go by no particular title. "Just Christians," shrugged one. In the same spirit, they'd just as soon remain anonymous for the purposes of the press, feeling that they have no "leaders" but Jesus.

They come from a variety of religious or no-religious backgrounds and from various parts of the land, including some from Southern California and Long Beach. Occasionally some of them push off and are replaced by others who feel the same way about things, or lean in that direction.

WHAT THEY have in common, explained a Mississippi with a strong drawl and a wispy reddish beard, "is that we're individuals, but we personally all talk to other people about Jesus."

"We think it takes no thought just to eat and drink. As a group, you could say we are all preachers, in the original sense of the word."

The big mustachioed man, who identified himself as a former Roman Catholic, lent emphasis to the description by leaning

Find 60% Baptized in Russian City

MOSCOW (AP) — A poll taken in the large industrial city of Gorki by the Young Communist League Magazine showed that 60 per cent of the babies were baptized despite a half-century of official atheism in the Soviet Union.

Milodol Kommunist, the magazine, said most of the parents listed themselves as non-believers. Sixty-one per cent said their families urged baptism. Another 23 per cent said they regarded it as an old Russian custom.

aggressively toward the visitors, thumping a finger against his Bible, and asking: "Are you good Christians? Are you saved?"

Reminded that he was the one being interviewed, not the reporter, he smiled fleetingly.

"I'm hard to get along with!"

"Some of us have gone to heathen gathering places to proclaim Christ," he went on. "Like the Unitarians, metaphysical churches, Jewish synagogues, places like that."

"Yes, we've been thrown out a couple of times!" He nodded toward another. "Fellow over there got rushed out pretty good once, got his head bumped along the wall." There was a cheerful grin of corroboration from the bumped one.

Asked if any area churches, attracted by the proximity of youthful Christian evangelists, had contacted them, there was a negative shaking of heads.

"We find institutional religious people object to us," one explained.

"The church is driving the young men out," said another, buttressing it with a quote from the New Testament.

Mississippi, who explained that he hitch hiked when he travels homeward "out of preference — I'd rather go that way and meet people" — put in that in his experiences "the only persecution we get is from people who call themselves Christians. It's that cliché thinking, when they look at us."

"They identify Christianity with being 'clean cut,'" snorted another.

WHILE MOST of the young evangelists concede that there are some "good Christians" in the churches, and "much truth" is spoken there, they are also basically suspicious of the organizational church feeling from their literal interpretation of the Scriptures that it is largely "caught up in the earthly kingdom."

"We don't find too many people in Long Beach who read the Bible," said one of the young men.

"Do not ye after their works, for they say, and do not," said another, quoting from Matthew.

A question on their opinion of Youth for Christ, young evangelists with somewhat less hirsute adornment, brought some tolerant smiles, much like backpackers regard Boy Scouts. "Goody goody" one was heard to mumble. But here too it was conceded that Youth for Christ can play a good role "in their way."

While fundamental Christians in a basic sense, these youngsters do not have strong feelings about purity in language, or alcoholic beverages. "Alcohol is all right," observed one, "I don't mean using it in excess, but it's not the test of a Christian."

There was a momentary interruption in the chat as a big man in picturesque clothing and well adorned face crashed through the front door and up the inside stairs.

"That's George, our cycle head," explained big mustache with a grin. When the motorcycle fan "became a Christian," he explained, a church refused to baptize him because of his appearance.

While welcoming any fellow Bible students for 5 a.m. devotions, as per the sign, the emphasis of the young men is not particularly to bring people to their place.

"IT'S NOT to bring them to any place, but to bring them to the Bible." Some of the fellows have been welcomed at a convalescent home, they said, where they have gone to preach the Word.

"Everybody needs Jesus Christ," said another. "That is the solution to all problems ... the only way to change America for the better ... people turning to God in Jesus Christ."

Some of them feel they need more preparation before evangelizing others. "Right now," it was explained, "we are mostly preparing in the Bible, getting our own lives squared away more, so as not to be heretics and teach some unbiblical weird theology later."

Others continue to evangelize while they dip deeper into the Bible.

People passing by the corner, the fellows report, occasionally drop in, trying to square their conditioned reflex reaction to hairy-faced young men with the message, they see. "They'll ask us, are you people really serious?" they say.

'Messiah' Ushers in the Advent

The Advent and Christmas season will be ushered in with the traditional presentation of part one of Handel's Messiah (the Christmas section) on Sunday, 7:30 p.m. in Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, 370 Junipero Ave. The presentation has become an annual event under the direction of Wallace R. Herrewig, minister of music.

The Chancel Choir, which presently made a recording of favorite anthems, will sing all of the choruses of Uart-I; and the guest soloists will sing each of the recitatives and arias. Guest soloists will be Jeanette Belter, a member of the Roger Wagner Choral; Barney Spencer, recently returned from operatic engagements in Europe; Dennis Mangers, well known in this city and the Southland for his oratorio singing and Olive Charley.

Laura Echeverria, recently appointed by the church to succeed the late Elizabeth Loomis, will provide the accompaniment at the three manual Reuter Pipe Organ.

25th Anniversary in Bellflower

Bethany Christian Reformed Church at Bixby and Park Street, Bellflower, will celebrate its 25th anniversary next week, starting Thursday with Youth Night, with Rev. B. N. Huizemga and through Sunday with former pastors speaking.

The now thriving church began with 35 families out of the mother church, First Bellflower. The Calvinist denomination is headquartered in Grand Rapids, Mich., with a reported membership of 275,000.

FROM THE PULPIT
There is absolutely nothing in this world that we can enjoy to our capacity until we are prepared through conditioning for it. A baby lives, but it must be conditioned to enjoy a sunset or a symphony.

No one really enjoys a church service until they are conditioned to do so. Environment, prayer, music and praise are all essential to condition us for receiving the Word. The atmosphere must be conducive, the music must be inspiring but understandable and meaningful, and the message one of divine inspiration.

Perhaps we receive too little spiritual help because we have so little spiritual conditioning. If you find your spiritual life lacking, why not try a service at Calvary. Come to Calvary. Calvary is for you!

Your Motivations Need Reactivating

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE

"I'm going to fire that guy," growled an employer. He was talking about a certain employee whom I knew. "The fellow is too slow on the uptake," he said, "too listless and dull." I responded with a thought that did the trick: "Instead of firing him out of your business why don't you fire him into it?"

"How in the world?" he demanded, "can I fire him into the business? You mean build a fire under him?"

"No!" I said, "build a fire in him. Get him excited about his job. Give him motivation, some real go-ahead!"

It turned out to be sound advice, and my friend now says of the lackluster employee: "The man is a ball of fire."

WELL, YOU may observe, as for me I have just an ordinary job... I don't see anything in it to get worked up about... Now, that is where you need to get going. Just get worked up about your job and you will work your job up. Get fired up about it and you will put fire into it. And it will grow as you grow. Any occupation, any job, has thrill in it if you have some thrill in you.

Recently I talked with a young woman whose job is selling inspirational self-help books by direct mail. She said, "I sure have gotten steamed up. Boy, am I motivated! I discovered what mountain-tops can do for you!"

"What do you mean, mountain-tops?"

She filled me in. "Here I am in the business of selling books by direct mail. And I believe in these books. They've got something to say and I am eager to see them widely read. My boss sent me to a one-week conference on direct mail selling."

You wouldn't think that a person would come back from a direct mail sales conference so thoroughly inspired and revitalized as was this girl. But it isn't so strange when you consider the terrific enthusiasm in some business groups. This girl, by attending the conference, had been made aware of the vast possibilities of direct mail selling: how you can do it more effectively, how you can get through to people and really communicate, how you can motivate them, indeed, how you can make the whole selling process creative.

"I came back to the job walking on air," she said. "Look what life can be! Look what I can make out of selling." Her face was aglow. Talk about a fire being built inside someone; she was afire and then some.

"Mountain-tops!" she repeated. "You can't live without mountain-tops. But the thing is, you can't be on the mountain-top all the time either. You've got to come down and do the humdrum things. And down below in the daily routine it is easy to lose sight of the upper level experience. So when I begin to feel negative and dull again, I go back in my mind to the mountain-top motivation that showed me what I can really do."

"You are a smart girl," I said admiringly. "Before you ever thought of that, the Bible said it in one of the most glorious statements ever formulated."

AND I quoted: "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles..." That is a mountain-top. But that is not the end. It comes down a little: "...they shall run, and not be weary..." Even that isn't the end; it comes down a little more: "...they shall walk, and not faint..."

The reason you can walk through the humdrum of this world and not faint is because you have been on the mountain-top of motivational experience.

That is why a person should get an inspirational rejuvenation regularly. The fire of enthusiasm won't burn forever unless you throw some fresh logic on it. Your motivation can sag and leave you drained of driving impetus unless you have a definite program of renewal. And how is that accomplished? Read inspirational books. Go to inspirational meetings. Get to know men and women who are doing inspiring things. Above all, run as hard as you can from the cynics and the grippers. They are not going anywhere. But you are.

BOOKS Jefferson on Jesus

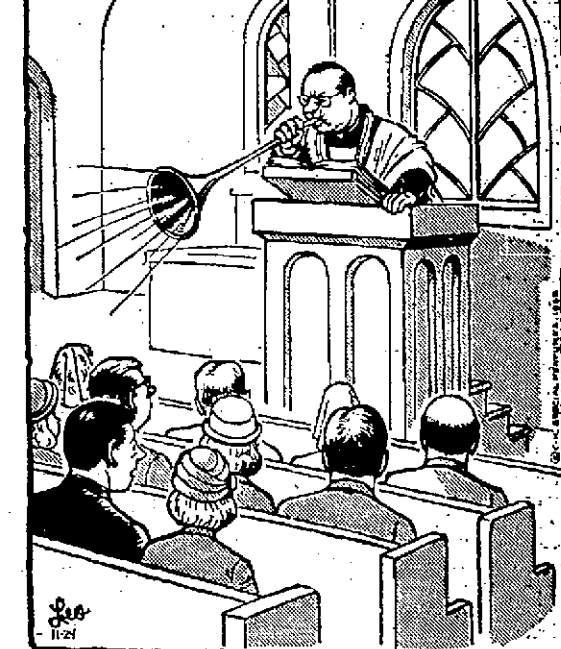

The Life and Morals of Jesus. Extracted textually from the Gospels of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, by Thomas Jefferson. Eakins, $3.95.

Jefferson, while president, sought to come closer to Jesus as human being and philosopher, and revised and edited the four gospels into one. He wrote John Adams: "We must reduce our volume to the simple evangelists; select, even from them, the very words only of Jesus... There will be found remaining the most sublime and benevolent code of morals which has ever been offered to man." This little book was the result.

TELE-VUES

ABC Ungrateful, Capote Asserts

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

Truman Capote has some bitter things to say about the American Broadcasting Co. in the current issue of Time.

His chief complaint seems to be that the network is ungrateful for all he's done for it — all those Emmys he's brought to ABC. They don't appreciate him for a work he did about capital punishment, "Death Row, U.S.A." (The work in question was reviewed in the Nov. 3 issue of Tele-Vues). If Time is correct, Capote from now on will take his creations to some other network.

IF THIS were a question of literary judgments, I guess I'd have to go along with Capote even though there is a school which holds that authors are not particularly good judges of their works.

Everything a writer does is not necessarily good because he wrote it and while I'm not trying to make judgments on Capote's "Death Row, U.S.A." which hasn't been aired except at a private showing back east, a blanket charge of ineptness against ABC is perhaps unwarranted.

After all, ABC did have the good judgment to stage "A Christmas Memory," "Among the Paths to Eden" and "The Thanksgiving Visitor." On the other hand there was Capote's participation in the turkey, "Laura." So you see neither authors nor networks are infallible.

STILL, Capote's batting average is pretty good, and "The Thanksgiving Visitor" aired Thursday night more than justifies some of his comments about his bringing quality to television.

"The Thanksgiving Visitor" continues Capote's reminiscences about his childhood and his childhood friend, Miss Sook.

13 Bill Anderson Show 9:00 P.M.
2 Hogan's Heroes, Bob Crane, Howard Caine, Richard Erdman. A suspicious Hochstetler plants a spy on the compound after a reporter rescued and returned to England writes a story about the heroes' activities.
4 *Movie: "Morgan," Vanessa Redgrave, David Warner, Robert Stephens ('66-1st run). Young painter, who lives in a fantasy world, returns to London to prevent the marriage of his divorced wife to a more conventional man.
13 The Stoneman Family
28 *NET Festival: "The Fanatics." BBC docu-

and elderly cousin who appears to be childish, but has a wisdom of innocence that one would wish were more prevalent.

There's a bit of a plot in "The Thanksgiving Visitor." Buddy, (Capote), the boy, is bullied by another youngster at school, and Buddy develops illnesses to stay home. Miss Sook invites the bully to the Thanksgiving dinner hoping that this gesture will solve the problem for Buddy, as well as the bully. Buddy sees his "enemy" steal a brooch and denounces him at the Thanksgiving table. Miss Sook defends the guest.

The point is that the simple Miss Sook, despite her love for Buddy, makes Buddy recognize that a calculated revenge is worse than any spur-of-the-moment offense the bully may have visited on Buddy.

I SUPPOSE you could extend that reasoning and explain Capote's feelings about our system of capital punishment.

When you think about the philosophy of forgiveness Capote expresses with such touching simplicity in his story, and then — again if Time is correct — weigh Capote's reaction to ABC-TV, you could hardly say that Capote's personal philosophy is "turn the other cheek," He "smotes mightily."

SOFT-SELL SAM

"I'M BOILING LUNCH, 'CAUSE YOU'RE THE CUSTOMER... I HOPE!"

Still, once a year or so it doesn't do any harm to get caught up in the season's spirit, and "The Thanksgiving Visitor" was a warm, touching TV experience.

IT IS always a shock of a sort to hear Capote's high-pitched voice narrating and I don't see any particular reason for this except perhaps an ABC gesture of knuckling under to his ego. It does distract.

"The Thanksgiving Visitor" basically owes its charm to Geraldine Page who plays Miss Sook. And if TV ever reaches the stage where some recognized authority can begin to think of listing memorable characters created for the medium, she must certainly head the list.

Students in Turkey Protest New Envoy

ISTANBUL (UPI)—Turkish students, some waving signs saying "Go Home Yankees" and "Damn Imperialism," gathered at airports here and in Ankara today to protest the arrival of new U.S. Ambassador to Turkey Robert W. Komer.

At Yesilkoy Airport here a group of about 50 students broke through police lines when a plane believed to be carrying Komer, former deputy ambassador in Saigon, taxied in to unload passengers. Seventeen protesters were arrested.

Komer arrived on another commercial flight.

It could well be that Trojan quarterback Steve Sogge will emerge as the key man in the Trojan attack. Sogge has hit clutch passes in helping USC rally from behind in five of the nine games.

THESE New York Jets, who vowed they wouldn't shave their mustaches and goatees until they won the Eastern Division title of the AFL, made good Friday. While Cornell Gordon, Jim Hudson and Bake Turner applied clippers, quarterback Joe Namath (left), alias Fu Manchu, changed his mind. Whatta ya want, Joe, the Super Bowl?

OAKLAND (UPI) — Ted Hampson and Bill Hicke each tallied two goals Friday night for Oakland and the Seals withstood a late comeback by Montreal for a 5-4 win.

Montreal, still leading the Eastern Division of the National Hockey League, lost its second goaltender this week when Rogatien Vachon was struck over the right eye by a stick at 14:13 of the second period. He was replaced by Tony Esposito with the Seals leading 3-2.

SPORTS BEAT

Two teams dressed in coats and ties will play the Rose Bowl game behind a rostrum before Jan. 1.

Debaters from Ohio State and USC plan to argue the question of football supremacy sometime before the players from each school meet on the gridiron in Pasadena.

The contest will center on one of two possible resolutions: "Resolved, Ohio State is No. 1," or "Resolved, USC is No. 1." The debate will be held in Los Angeles, and may be televised.

El Rancho's Defense Blanks Arroyo, 20-0

By GARY ELLIS

El Rancho High continued its bid for the "AAAA" CIF football championship Friday night by beating old league rival Arroyo, 20-0, in the quarter-final round at Mt. San Antonio College.

The Dons relied on a stout defense and the first half running of fullback Dennis Burt to beat last year's Pacific League nemesis.

So complete was El Rancho's defense, which picked off three Glenn Johnson passes and scooped up four fumbles, that the Knights couldn't penetrate the Dons' 25-yard line.

Burt carried the Dons through the first half, scoring twice and gaining 120 yards in 10 carries.

Randy Drake, brilliant the entire season, was a bit erratic, completing only 8 of 21 passes for 77 yards. One of his completions iced the victory, however, a five-yard toss to end Steve Nieto early in the third quarter.

Little used fullback Burt, replacing injured

Martinez Scores Two TDs in St. Paul Win

Charles Martinez scored a pair of touchdowns to lead St. Paul High to a 28-0 victory over the Santa Barbara Dons in the quarterfinals of the AAA CIF championships at Ceritos Friday night.

Jim Wise, the 6-2 175 pound quarterback, also scored as did Greg Zail, a 5-10, 175 halfback.

The Warriors now have a 10-0-1 record for the season, the only blemish, a 14-14 tie with Bishop Amat in Angelus League play.

St. Paul: 28-0; Santa Barbara: 0-0.

St. Paul scoring: Martinez 2 (17 run, 1 punt); Zail (12 run); Wise (2 run) PAT 4 kicks.

Westminster Defeats Pasadena in Playoffs

Westminster High's powerful running attack crushed Pasadena, 34-14, in the CIF "AAAA" playoffs Friday night at the Santa Ana Bowl.

Westminster rolled up 338 yards on the ground. Ron Shepherd led the way with 164 yards on 14 carries and scored touchdowns on runs of 16 and 10 yards.

Quarterback Eddie Bane completed 5 of 6 passes, all in the first half, for 81 yards. Westminster limited Pasadena to 138 yards rushing and 52 of those came on Silverstein blood's TD run in the fourth quarter.

Westminster had 18 first downs to 6 for Pasadena. Three of Pasadena's first downs were the result of penalties.

Florida St. Passing Attack Pummels Houston, 40-20

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Florida State's highly charged passing combination of Bill Cappelman-to-Ron Sellers gave the nation's No. 1 offensive team a lesson Friday night as the Seminoles upset 10th-ranked Houston 40-20 in their regular season football finale.

Sellers, the all-American flanker who had already set a national career pass receiving record going into the game, caught 14 tosses for 214 yards, including a 62-yard touchdown, and ran his career yardage total to 3,598.

FSU stopped Houston's offense in the first half by keying on halfback Paul Gipson and built a 25-0 lead, which set the pre-

Vikes, Coach Debut, Rip Palomar, 101-60

By DAVE DANIEL

SAN MARCOS — Rex Hughes served notice that Long Beach City College is a team to be reckoned with Friday night as the Vikings rolled to a 101-60 win at Palomar College.

Hughes, making his junior college debut a successful one, showed that he won't be pushed around. He was slapped with a technical foul with less than five minutes of the game gone.

Hughes will make his home debut with the Vikings tonight at 8 against Orange Coast College, the only team to defeat LBCC in pre-season play last year.

The game will be broadcast on KRON-FM, 88.1. The Pirates dropped their season opener Friday night to El Camino, 91-85.

The Vikings, using a strong defense and almost unbelievable first-game accuracy built a 48-31 half-time lead and coasted.

Hughes showed a lot of confidence in his ball players. He had four freshmen in the game early in the first half.

Seven players hit in double figures for the Vikings.

Doug Hixon, reserve guard last year, led all scorers with 17 points, including eight in a row in the final 2½ minutes.

BAYLOR SEEKS FOOTBALL COACH

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Baylor University fired head football coach and athletic director John Bridges Friday and set about finding a new coach to heal what president Abner McCall termed "hostility among supporters."

McCall, who 10 years ago helped hire Bridges away from the Baltimore Colts where he was a defensive line coach, said, "I regret it came to this."

In upholding Wednesday's decision by a five-man faculty athletic council that Bridges must go, McCall said, "I'm not positive this is the correct course, but we must have unified support again for our athletic program."

It has been 44 years since Baylor won a Southwest Conference football championship. The Bears have experienced five successive losing seasons. This year Baylor is 2-7 with only today's game against Rice remaining.

Bridges, 43, whose overall record is 48-53-1, said, "I was kinda surprised they announced (the firing) before the Rice game. I really don't want to say anything that will detract from our team effort."

Bullets Beat Suns, Regain Lead in East

Associated Press

Baltimore defeated Phoenix 124-106 Friday night with a third quarter drive that pushed the Bulls into first place in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Assn.

It was the Suns' ninth successive loss, the longest losing streak in the NBA this season.

Oscar Robertson's 40 points, including 13 in the final period, sparked the Cincinnati Royals to a 122-112 victory over the Detroit Pistons.

Robertson, who led both clubs in scoring, connected on a three-point play with 6:21 left in the game to give the Royals a 98-91 lead.

After the Pistons rallied and cut the Royals' margin to five points, Robertson followed with another three-point play to boost the Cincinnati margin to eight, 105-97 with 4:51 remaining.

Lanky Clyde Lee tallied a career high of 35 points in leading the San Francisco Warriors to an easy 140-119 win over Milwaukee.

Led by Bob Cooper with 27 points, the Chicago Bulls pulled out a comparatively easy 110-89 victory over the San Diego Rockets.

In winning their second straight and ninth of the season against 15 losses, the Bulls outscored the Rockets in every period after taking the lead early in the first quarter.
